Blue Ribbon Stocks In Sensational Rise On Market

A. T. & T. IN SEVEN POINT JUMP TODAY

United States Steel Hits High Mark Since 1931 As Common Crosses 58

GRAINS ARE STRONG

American Dollar Is Forced To Lowest Mark Since 1879; Rails In Advance

NEW YORK, June 12.—(UP)—Stocks advanced 1 to more than 6 points to the best levels since 1931 today. Volume was around the 6,000,000 share mark.

Highest grade issues forged ahead at the expense of a large short interest. American Telephone rose more than 7 points to within a few points of its 1931 high. Steel common crossed 58 for the first time since 1931.

New highs for the year or longer were made by American Can, General Motors, National Biscuit, Chrysler, Industrial Rayon, Eastman Kodak, United Fruit, National distilleries, Canadian Pacific, Sears Roebuck, Standard Oil of California, Standard Oil of New Jersey, United Corporation, Continental Can and Consolidated Gas.

The advance carried all stocks along with it. Farm equipments responded to a rise to new seasonal highs in wheat, oats and rice at Chicago and wheat at Minneapolis.

Early short covering was touched off by a break in the American dollar to new lows since the resumption of specie payments in 1879. The dollar later regained part of its losses.

Railroad shares had a period of strength in the late morning, with several, notably Delaware & Hudson, rising 1 to more than 3 points and held gains well.

Utilities were heavily traded. Blocks of 1000 to more than 10,000 shares appeared in them as prices mounted to new highs for the year. The utility average crossed the 1932 high and was back to 1931 levels. Commonwealth & Southern and United Corporation were heavily traded, both making new highs for the year.

Among others to make new 1933 tops were North American, American & Foreign Power, Electric Power, Public Service and American Power & Light.

Steel shares followed U. S. Steel

MACDONALD ADMITS HE KILLED MOTHER

FLINT, Mich., June 12.—(UP)—Balfie MacDonald, 17-year-old high school student whose mother was found dead in her home here more than two weeks ago, confessed to the slaying of his widowed parent today, Flint police said.

The youth, apprehended last week in Nashville, Tenn., whence he had fled with a companion, William Terwilliger, was brought back here early today.

Police Inspector Edward S. Tewhey said Balfie implicated himself alone. He asserted Balfie said he and his mother had quarreled over vacation plans. As she lay in bed, according to Tewhey, Balfie struck her on the head with a pair of heavy bookends.

FERRY CRASHES INTO SLIP; 350 ESCAPE INJURY

SAN FRANCISCO, June 12.—(UP)—Engine trouble was blamed today for the crash of the Southern Pacific Golden Gate automobile ferry Mendocino as it entered its slip here from Sausalito last night.

About 350 passengers escaped injury as the heavy craft sped at 25 miles an hour between the pilings and rammed against the iron-clad apron. Several women fainted.

Several of the 85 automobiles aboard were wrecked, and windshields of others were shattered.

COMMITTEE TO ACT ON MORGAN PROBE

WASHINGTON, June 12.—(UP)—Decision whether to continue senate investigation of J. P. Morgan & Co. this summer awaits action tomorrow by the banking and currency sub-committee in charge of the inquiry.

Sentiment generally was for delay until cooler weather. If hearings were resumed it probably would be with Otto Kahn, head of Kahn, Loeb & Co., as the first witness. Inquiry into Morgan & Co. affairs has not been completed but all that remains is the submission of various reports sought by Ferdinand Pecora, counsel of the investigating committee.

BIG DIPPER RIDER KILLED IN VENICE

VENICE, Cal., June 12.—(UP)—Jerome Cooper, 27, was killed last night when he rose to his feet at the crest of the "big dipper" roller coaster at Venice.

Riding the chutes with a party of friends, Cooper stood up as the car rounded a turn at the height of the ride. His head struck a large beam on which was painted "Don't stand up." He was thrown from the car and decapitated by scaffolding as his body plunged to the ground 100 feet below.

ONE KILLED AND NINE HURT IN WEEKEND AUTO ACCIDENTS

NEYHARD SHOT DURING FIGHT. ATTACKER SAYS

L. B. Plumber Claims Trabuco Canyon Shooting Was Self Defense

WITH HOMER NEYHARD, 45, Long Beach oil worker, still fighting a valiant battle for life at the Orange county hospital, sheriff's officers have secured a statement from J. Gordon Bennett, 50, Long Beach plumber, that he shot Neyhard in self defense after finding the oil worker and Mrs. Bennett, 47, in a Trabuco canyon cabin Thursday night.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Bennett were arrested Saturday afternoon by Logan Jackson and are being held in the Orange county jail on charge of investigation of assault with a deadly weapon with intent to commit murder. The arrest followed a statement by Neyhard accusing Bennett of shooting him and admitting that Mrs. Bennett was in his cabin at the time of the shooting.

It was not until faced with the confession of Neyhard Saturday that the Bennetts would admit that their alibi was false. They previously had claimed to be in San Fernando at the time of the shooting. Mrs. Bennett also accused her husband of the shooting but Bennett said he could not remember what happened during the fight.

Makes Statement

In a statement to Sheriff Jackson and Deputy District Attorney James L. Davis, Bennett said he received an anonymous telephone call that his wife was on a party in Trabuco canyon Thursday night. He went unarmed to find her and stood outside the cabin window several minutes watching Neyhard and Mrs. Bennett, when he demanded entrance. Neyhard fired an automatic pistol at him but missed, he said.

Bennett grappled for the gun but could not remember what happened after that. Believing Neyhard dead, the Bennetts returned to Long Beach and then departed for San Fernando. Discrepancies in the alibi led Deputy Sheriffs Merle Dean and L. H. Nicholson to doubt their story and the arrests followed.

LEA WINE BILL IS DELAYED BY HOUSE

WASHINGTON, June 12.—(UP)—The house ways and means committee voted today to pass the Lea wine legalization bill over until the next session.

The vote was 11 to 9. Members of the committee from Western states sought to report the bill favorably this session but were unable to muster sufficient votes.

It was reported representatives of eastern states opposed a favorable report on the bill because of the provision excluding sweet or fortified wines from those legalized.

Chairman Doughton of the committee said the bill probably will be brought before the committee early in the next session.

LEAPS FROM WINDOW IN CHICAGO HOTEL

CHICAGO, June 12.—(UP)—A man registered as Donald Foster, 41, Seattle, Wash., today was in the hospital with critical injuries after leaping from the seventh floor of the Crest hotel on the southside.

He was unconscious and police were unable to question him concerning the leap. He left a note citing persecution by "motion picture big shots" as the reason for his act.

He plunged from the seventh floor of his room and crashed through the top of a parked automobile which was believed to have saved him from instant death.

EARLY ADJOURNMENT SEEN AS CONGRESS TURNS DOWN MOVES TO ADJOURN SESSION

WASHINGTON, June 12.—(UP)—Administration forces drove toward an early adjournment of congress today by defaulting two attempts to delay conclusion of the session by consideration of measures not on the administration program.

Senate Democrats, with a bellowing "no" that jarred the chamber, shouted down a motion by Senator Vandenberg, Repn., Mich., to bring to the senate for consideration a bill to relieve bankrupt cities.

The house ways and means committee voted to delay consideration of the Lea wine bill legalization bill until the regular session of congress next January.

The vote on the Vandenberg motion buried the bill in committee and avoided the delay which would have resulted from floor consideration.

Majority Leader Robinson begged the senate not to bring the bill out "in the closing hours of the session." He predicted that passage of the bill would involve the government in the financing of city and state governments.

Opinion of congressional leaders regarding a probable time for adjournment was divided. Speaker of the House Rainey predicted that congress could adjourn "sometime tonight" but other leaders said they believed adjournment would be delayed until tomorrow and perhaps later.

A bitter fight however was waged over the compromise of the veterans' compensation cut dispute.

Anaheim Man Near Death In Hospital

Six Persons Are Injured In Crash Near Orange County Hospital

ONE PERSON was killed by a hit and run driver and nine were injured in three auto collisions as the toll of traffic accidents in Orange county yesterday. The traffic death toll in the county so far this year now stands at 19.

Chenec Gomez, 62, a resident of Corona Camp, west of La Habra, was instantly killed at 5:15 p. m. when he was struck by a car reported to have been driven by Ignacio Flores, also of Corona Camp.

The body was taken to the McAuley and Suters funeral home in Fullerton pending an inquest by Coroner Earl Abbey. Gomez died from a fractured skull.

Flores disappeared after the accident and has not been located by officers. Joe Barola, 21, friend of Flores, spirited the driver away and was arrested by Officers Vernon Barnhill and Joe Clever of the California highway patrol on investigation of a felony. Barola refuses to tell where he took Flores.

Gomez is survived by his widow, Mrs. Theodora Gomez, and had lived at the Corona camp for some time.

LAMSON HEARING TO BE HELD THURSDAY

SAN JOSE, Calif., June 12.—(UP)—Attorneys for David Lamson, Stanford press manager charged with the "bathtub murder" of his wife, Allene, will summon 24 witnesses for the preliminary hearing Thursday before Justice of the Peace Grandin A. Miller, they said today.

They hope to force the prosecution to reveal all its evidence, and they were confident the case against Lamson would be exposed as "so weak that dismissal of the murder complaint would follow."

Sheriff William Emig, whom the defense will attempt to put on the witness stand, countered with the assertion he has important evidence which has not been revealed, but will be used if necessary to hold Lamson for trial.

RYAN ENDS LIFE

SAN FRANCISCO, June 12.—(UP)—A nervous breakdown, which left him mentally unbalanced during the last month, today was blamed for the suicide of Daniel A. Ryan, 60, former chairman of the Republican State Central committee, who was found shot through the head in his home here.

was well-lighted and heated. The wireless station here was working 24 hours as was the station on St. Lawrence island. Coast guard boats were patrolling waters he must cross to reach here.

The flight from Khabarovsk to Nome is probably the most difficult of Mattern's undertakings. Bering Sea which he must cross is rough at this time of year and heavy fogs and storms rise quickly.

NOME PREPARES TODAY FOR ARRIVAL OF JIM MATTERN

NOME, Alaska, June 12.—(UP)—The airport here buzzed with excitement today as time approached for the expected arrival of Jimmie Mattern, "round-the-world flier."

The weather was cool and the sky overcast. A slight southwest wind was blowing but not enough to cause Mattern any trouble.

WORLD'S FAIR PLANE FLIGHT ON WATER BILL ENDS IN DEATH BEFORE ROLPH

Charred Bodies Of Nine Recovered From Wreckage Of Amphibian

CHICAGO, June 12.—(UP)—A gay party of World's fair pleasure-seekers were burned to death yesterday in an airplane crash so devastating that even the number of victims and the identity of some remained uncertain today.

Charred bodies of nine victims, including the pilot and his mechanic, were removed from the twisted wreckage of a Sikorsky amphibian which plunged to the ground at Glenview, a suburb 30 miles from Chicago.

Owners of the plane, which was fighting toward an airport after being crippled in an attempted landing at the World's fair harbor, believed a tenth victim, possibly a woman, was aboard.

Six victims were identified. They were: Carl V. Vickery, Chicago, a pilot; Stephanie Ogerson, 20, Chicago; Harry Jacobs, Wheeling, W. Va., mechanic; Edward Schaller, 22, Storm Lake, Ia.; J. T. Robinson, 21, New York; Edward M. Fay, Chicago; Vickery, veteran army flier, and Jacobs were found in the control room. Schaller and Robinson were identified by the latter's father. Both were students at the University of Chicago.

Trapped in Cabin

All the victims, trapped in the cabin of the ship when it plunged from a height of 150 feet, were burned beyond recognition.

Identification of the other victims, officials feared, might take days. They were among the thousands of week-end visitors at the fair and may have been from distant parts of the country.

Sunday afternoon motorists saw the huge plane, once owned by Samuel Insull, wobble in the air and plunge to the ground as a wing crumpled. Victims not killed by the crash died when fire enveloped the torn ship, sending flames nearly a hundred feet into the air.

HULSE'S TRIAL IS PUT OFF TWO WEEKS

PASADENA, Calif., June 12.—(UP)—Trial of State Senator Ben Hulse, of El Centro, on a charge of intoxication, today was continued for two weeks at the request of Hulse's attorney, Archie D. Orme.

Police Judge Kenneth C. Newell granted the extension on a plea that Hulse had to be in Sacramento.

Hulse did not appear in court. The charge grew out of an automobile accident following which the solon pleaded guilty to a charge of hit-run driving and was fined $90. He will plead to the intoxication charge on June 26.

Ramsay MacDonald Issues Warning That Failure Cannot Be Tolerated

30 MILLION JOBLESS

More Than 800 Persons In Hushed Silence Listen To Welcome By Monarch

BULLETIN

LONDON, June 12.—(UP)—The Secretary of State, Cordell Hull predicted the success of the world economic conference in a formal statement tonight.

Hull interpreted the opening speeches of the king and Prime Minister J. Ramsay MacDonald at the world economic conference as evidence of their faith that the conference "will aid materially the processes of restoration."

The nations of the earth were invited by King George V. today to bury their economic hatreds and get together for a common effort to restore prosperity.

The bearded monarch, ruler of one-fourth of the world's population, officially opened the world economic conference, a gathering of statesmen from 55 nations, convened to debate the economic crisis.

The entire assemblage of 500 persons in the London Geological Museum listened in hushed silence as the king gave them a cordial welcome, wishing them godspeed in their efforts and showing himself deeply anxious that the world should overcome the crisis.

King Arrives

The king arrived at the museum at 2:50 p. m. by automobile from Windsor Castle. Wearing a top hat, he stepped carefully from the limousine to the royal red carpet stretching from the curb under a green and white canopy to the entrance.

He was greeted by Prime Minister J. Ramsay MacDonald and chatted with him in friendly fashion as he walked through the corridor to the elevator which took him to the conference hall. The crowds outside cheered steadily.

The king's speech was received with close attention. He spoke clearly, both in English and French, and his voice was carried throughout the hall by loud speakers.

Macdonald then warned the world that it would "drain the bitter cup

Bedding, tents and provisions were being rushed to the camp today as Lieut. Gaylord Phipps camp commander, ordered immediate replacement of the burned buildings.

Seeking Funds For Construction New City Hall Here

MAY COMBINE LIBRARY WITH CITY OFFICES

Mayor Paul Witmer was in Sacramento today to investigate the possibility of securing a R. F. C. loan to build a new city hall for Santa Ana.

With the city offices temporarily housed in the Santora building at Second and Broadway, city councilmen have been seeking a solution to the city hall problem. When the proposed trade of the old city hall site at Third and Main and the Frances Willard property at Tenth and Main street was abandoned after the board of education could not get a title policy, the R. F. C. plan was suggested.

There is no indication of where a new city hall would be located, although several sites have been under consideration. The former location has been discarded as being too small for an adequate building. The west half of Birch park has been suggested as a possible building site, since there would be no added cost for land. It has also been suggested that the public library be included in the city hall, leaving the way clear to offer both the old hall site and the library corner at Fifth and Spear streets for sale.

Officials said that injury to passengers was averted because they were in automobiles which absorbed the shock.

Captain Anton Smith of the Menlochino said that he gave a signal to reverse the engines, which would have acted as a brake, when the boat approached the pier, but that they failed, and the craft entered at full speed.

Passengers said they heard the bell signal for reverse, and later heard it repeated.

Damage to the pier and the boat was estimated at $5,000. The Menlochino was able to continue her Sausalito-San Francisco run.

An investigation to determine the cause of the engine trouble was ordered by officials.

Mrs. Jack O'Connell was seated in a front car with her husband, an official of the Travelers Protective association, and three children.

"It looked as though we were coming, sure," O'Connell related. "I yelled for my wife to cover her eyes and face, and we waited for the crash."

Senator Cutting, Repn. N. M., one of the most active in seeking to limit application of the economy act, said in a senate speech he found several flaws and jokers in the compromise offered by President Roosevelt.

"We are told that if we don't take this we can get nothing better," Cutting said. "We had better take nothing and go down fighting."

It was unnecessary to accept the new provisions, he asserted, because previous votes had shown the ability of compromise opponents to muster better than a two-thirds majority.

Senator Borah, Repn. Idaho, appealed directly to President Roosevelt by telephone on his industry control bill amendment which would forbid price fixing and combinations in restraint of trade.

CATHOLICS ARE DISPERSED AT MUNICH PARLEY

MUNICH, Germany, June 12.—(UP)—Police and storm troops surrounded the headquarters of the Catholic Artisans today. The occupants were ordered to evacuate immediately and it was understood storm troops would take over the building.

The sudden drive against local Catholics climaxed a series of clashes between delegates to the Catholic congress and Nazis. The congress dispersed hastily more than 24 hours ahead of its scheduled adjournment.

At least a dozen delegates were injured in a series of clashes with Nazis that began Saturday night and continued for more than 24 hours. Several were recovering in hospitals. Prelate Ziner of Mayence, one of the chief delegates, dropped dead during Sunday's mass from a stroke, presumably brought on by the excitement.

Vice Chancellor Franz von Papen, a Catholic, was understood to be preparing a protest to Chancellor Adolf Hitler.

Many of the delegates wore shirts of a flaming yellow. Nazis interpreted this as a gesture of contempt for them because the storm troops wear shirts of brown. Hundreds of yellow shirts were torn from the backs of their wearers and the Nazis carried the tattered remnants away as trophies.

Local officials blamed the Catholics for the outbreaks. The clashes, they said, were due to the congress uniforms. The Catholics, officials said, "lacked discipline."

The disturbances broke out in the convention hall itself while Von Papen was making a speech. Belligerent Nazis were ejected, but waited in the street until the delegates came out.

The congress had not been scheduled to adjourn until tonight, but because of the disturbances it adjourned yesterday.

RIVERS IN OREGON CONTINUE TO RISE

PORTLAND, Ore., June 12.—(UP)—Farmers in the lowlands fled to higher ground with their stock today as the Columbia and Willamette rivers, swollen by melting snows in the Cascade mountains, approached flood stage.

Crews worked to strengthen the Sauvie island dike on the Columbia river, which had reached the 78-foot mark at Hood River. A rise of three more feet would flood the rich surrounding agricultural area and the Columbia river highway.

A dike was dynamited at Vancouver, Wash., to prevent the Spokane, Portland & Seattle railroad tracks from being washed out. Pearson field, army airport near Vancouver, was flooded.

Although the revolver used in the shooting has not been found, a search of Bennett's home yesterday brought to light a holster which fitted a .38 caliber gun, the same type that fired the four bullets into Neyhard's body. Bennett claimed he purchased it at an auction sale and did not own a gun. A search of the grounds surrounding the cabin in being made for the revolver but it had not been located at a late hour today.

Find Cartridges
Neyhard's statement Saturday that he was shot by an automatic revolver by Bennett was borne out when a second search of the cabin was made that afternoon. G. F. McKelvey, deputy sheriff, and Herman Zabel, superintendent of records and identification, found three empty revolver cartridges in the cabin, and following Neyhard's instructions, dug up 38 caliber slugs from the ground. Neyhard declared Bennett knocked him to the ground, put the gun to his head, and pulled the trigger.

Neyhard was given a blood transfusion last night and is slightly improved. Two of the three bullets which lodged in his body have been removed and he is expected to recover. He was brought to the hospital Friday afternoon by a passing motorist after he had lain in a stupor Thursday night from his wounds.

Statements from Neyhard's daughter and admittances from Mrs. Bennett revealed that Neyhard and Mrs. Bennett had been intimate for nearly five years and that Neyhard had been virtually separated from his wife for the past three years. The wounded oil worker lives at 734 Lime avenue in Long Beach and the Bennetts reside at 2123 Linden avenue.

Mystery was injected in the case Friday when Neyhard told three conflicting stories of how he came to receive the four gunshot wounds.

BRITISH KING OPENS WORLD'S ECONOMIC MEET

of disappointment if the conference fails. He stressed the fact that the international labor office estimated 30,000,000 unemployed in the world, and blamed economic nationalism for it.

Prices Fall
"Markets are there, and labor to supply them," Macdonald said, "but labor is unemployed and markets are unfilled. All the machinery of prosperity is there, but it is slowing down and it is not working. Since prices have fallen and kept well below the levels at which production can be remunerative."

"Prices have fallen irregularly and have distorted the normal relationships on which economic activity has pivoted."

"In 1932, compared to 1929, production of raw material has fallen 30 per cent. National income has fallen seriously everywhere, as much as 40 to 50 per cent in some countries."

"The general crisis, accentuated by restrictions, tariffs, quotas and exchange control, has reduced international trade between 1929 and 1932 to less than three-quarters in volume and half in value."

"The gold standard has had to be deserted more generally than has been the case, in time of peace, since it was erected into an international measure of exchange."

Macdonald, wearing horn-rimmed glasses, read his speech with the greatest determination, glancing occasionally and raising his voice to drive home a point. When he mentioned war debts he was especially emphatic, declaring:

Settle Conditions
"They must be dealt with before every obstacle to general recovery has been removed. Languish has to be completed, and this vexed question settled once and for all in the light of present world conditions."

The delegates were stirred by Macdonald's bitter attack on war debts as of prime importance, even though they cannot be settled at the conference.

Financial experts of France, Britain and the United States at a meeting tomorrow will consider the creation of an equalization fund for the purely temporary stabilization of the dollar and the pound sterling.

A definite sum would be set aside to prevent fluctuations between the two currencies. It would be used until it is spent, which some experts predicted would be a few days and others a few months.

The idea at present is too general for details but it was understood it is proposed for the United States and Britain to share equally in creating the fund, with France agreeing to allow a free movement of gold beyond her frontiers.

The only advantage of the project would be a temporary ending of fluctuations and allow discussion of tariffs at the economic conference.

However, it was said there were certain objections by United States experts to the plan, which may prevent it from being successful.

COUNCIL PLANNING $100,000 BUDGET CUT IN EFFORT TO MAKE TAX RATE REDUCTION

Extensive reductions in the budget for the coming year will be made by the city council in the next few weeks with the assistance of the California Taxpayers' association when it was indicated today that action would be taken at the council meeting tonight to hire the tax organization to make a survey of municipal conditions and expenditures.

An informal conference was held Friday between two heads of the tax body and the city council. It was agreed to undertake the task of making a scientific study of local taxing problems for a sum reported to be $350 and this is the figure expected to be agreed upon tonight. If the investigators should finish their job earlier than anticipated, a sliding scale arrangement would lower the cost to the city.

Under the proposed arrangement, the department budgets will be studied and reductions suggested. Since the association has made similar surveys in most of the larger cities of the state, its recommendations will be given full consideration when the final passage of the budget comes before the city council.

Although no budget work will be done until the department heads submit their request, councilmen would like to approach a $100,000 reduction for the 1933-34 schedule. With the reduced assessments on property, a drastic cut in civic expenses would probably lower the tax rate a little bit.

The California Taxpayers' association made a survey for the city last year, although not as complete as the work proposed for this year. The investigation was completed in five days last year while the projected study is expected to take three weeks this time. Every item of expense will be considered by the tax experts and reduced if possible.

City councilmen have expressed the opinion that although it would be possible for them to make the reductions unassisted, they feel that the extra expense of hiring trained investigators will be more than justified in the results obtained. They point out that the experience gained by the association in making surveys for other cities will guarantee a scientific and unprejudiced examination of budget needs, unaffected by political or local affiliations.

Lloyd Banks, city auditor, will turn over the city books to the association in about two weeks. Budget forms were sent to the departments today and will be returned within the two week period.

WOMEN VOTERS PLAN MEET ON AMENDMENTS

An open meeting to give interested voters an opportunity to hear discussion on measures appearing on the ballot at the state election on June 27 will be held under the auspices of the League of Women Voters Tuesday night, June 20, at 7:30 o'clock in the Y. M. C. A. building. It was announced today by Mrs. J. D. Campbell, chairman.

The league has carried out the policy of opening meetings on questions of public interest for several years and they have been appreciated each time by large audiences. It was pointed out by Mrs. Campbell.

The measures on the ballot for June 27 include eight constitutional amendments and three other measures which are to be submitted to voters for their approval or rejection.

All of the measures will be presented by speakers who are qualified to discuss them, it was announced. Much of the attention, however, will center on S. C. A. No. 30, which repeals Amendment No. 1 of the state constitution and substitutes an entirely new method of taxing public utilities, gives the legislature power to set up new sources of taxation and other provisions which are equally interesting to the voter and taxpayer.

Supervisor W. C. Jerome, who has been an observer and student of government and taxation for many years, will lead the discussion and other speakers will be announced later.

The public is invited to the meeting.

THOUSANDS FLOCK TO BEACH CITIES

In spite of cloudy weather, thousands of persons from the interior towns visited the Orange county beaches yesterday and traffic was the heaviest on the Coast highway that it has been since last summer.

Although Laguna Beach has an ordinance against the wearing of trunks only, it is not being enforced and most of the men wore the abbreviated costume. Cafes and other refreshment places reported a big business. Closing of colleges and many of the interior high schools has brought an early influx of regular summer visitors and houses are being opened earlier than last year. Real estate brokers report the largest demand for rentals in many years.

Bathing suit styles for women are neater than last year, but are not quite as scanty. The new rubber suits have had a wide vogue.

FORMATION OF LARGE WATER DISTRICT IN SOUTHERN PART OF ORANGE COUNTY DISCUSSED

Formation of a large water district in the southern end of the county, with the object of joining the Metropolitan Water District, was given impetus Saturday night at the meeting of the South Coast Improvement association, held in the Hotel Laguna at Laguna Beach when a committee was named to get data from the board of directors of the larger district on which such a plan could be based.

This action followed a statement in which the writer quoted Edward Col. S. H. Finley of Santa Ana, secretary of the M.W.D., who gave as his personal opinion, and which he declared had no authority, that the directors could be induced to build the San Juan creek and Trabuco canyon dams if a water district were formed that was large enough to warrant the capital outlay.

This statement came in answer to persistent questions by E. M. Scofield, president of the Improvement association and members of the South Coast water board. Col. Finley suggested that a district that had an assessed valuation in excess of $5,000,000 might be formed in the territory to the south, that is not included in the new district formed by legislative action, the bill for which is awaiting approval or veto by Gov. Ralph.

Col. Finley outlined a district, the boundaries of which would include the area south of Laguna Beach, Dana Point, Doheny Park, and Doheny Palisades, San Clemente, San Juan Capistrano, El Monte, San Juan Capistrano, El Monte, and portions of the Moulton, Irvine and O'Neil ranches. The water stored by the two dams would feed a large agricultural area in addition to the communities which might in the future depend upon it for domestic use.

The committee named to take up the matter with the M.W.D. board is composed of President Scofield and E. L. Crawford and Cooley, the latter two directors of the South Coast Water District.

Early in his talk, Col. Finley had declared that the area of the South Coast Water District is too small to warrant the capital expenditure necessary to lay the Colorado river water down at its boundaries. The nearest point where water will be delivered to a member city is Santa Ana. Delivery to the South Coast district would require the use of pressure pipe and the distance would be 20 miles. The cost would be more than the assessed valuation of the district, he said.

In answer to a question by President Scofield, Col. Finley admitted that since the secession of several member cities, that the M.W.D. board was more inclined to lend an ear of approval to plans from smaller areas, but declared that in any event the district must be large enough to support capital outlays of any size.

In introducing the speaker, President Scofield, former head of the water and power bureau of the city of Los Angeles, declared that the people of the coast section must take a long-distance view of the water situation. He predicted that in from 15 to 20 years the center of population will be at some point along the coast of Orange county and that the bulk of the taxes will come from increased assessed valuations. Later he asked Col. Finley if the M.W.D. board would not gamble with the future and give consideration to population centers now too small to be included as members. Col. Finley replied that in his opinion some consideration should be given by the board to the future of certain areas, but that it was not feasible to take in too small a territory, if the assessed valuation did not warrant it.

INVITE S. A. TO TAKE PART IN AIR RACE EVENT

An invitation to make the opening day of the National Air Races in Los Angeles July 1, 2, 3 and 4 "Orange County Day" was received from officials today by the Santa Ana Chamber of Commerce.

The opening day of the famed air event will be on a Saturday, and the invitation received today by Secretary George A. Raymer asked the participation of Santa Ana, Orange, Anaheim and Fullerton in the event.

In conjunction with the event, officials expressed hope in the letter that the county would sponsor a float in the All-Southern California Inaugural parade to be staged at 9 a. m. the opening day and which will be repeated at the Los Angeles Municipal airport at 1 p. m. in front of the grandstands, as part of the official welcoming and opening ceremonies.

George Woodward, regional director, is scheduled to be in Santa Ana this afternoon or Tuesday to discuss plans for the participation of Santa Ana with Raymer and other city officials.

Besides $50,000 in cash awards, other prizes will be awarded at various events during the races. All planes at Eddie Martin's Airport will fly to the races, it was learned today, but no active participation by the pilots is planned at present.

JAYCEE GRADUATES ADVISED TO BUILD LIFE FOUNDATIONS TO MEET COMING CHANGES

Taking as his theme "Today's Greatest Quest: Security" and his text Psalm 84:3 "The swallow hath found a nest for herself where she may lay her young, even thine altars," the Rev. O. Scott McFarland, pastor of the First Presbyterian church, delivered the baccalaureate sermon yesterday afternoon for graduates of the Santa Ana Junior college.

The baccalaureate service was held at 4:30 p. m. in the auditorium of the First Presbyterian church and was preceded by an organ recital. Music during the service was provided by the college A Capella choir singing Palestrina's anthem "Adoramus Te" and Handel's "Hallelujah Chorus" from "The Messiah." Miss Jean Baldwin, member of the graduating class sang "Thou Art My God" as a solo.

Dr. McFarland advised the graduating class "You must give the best you have to the best you know. There is the path to a life of inward joy and satisfying service. Only such a life is secure in the midst of gathering storms. Only the life that has for its foundations the enduring satisfactions can adapt itself to all the changes that are bound to come. The best you have is your life. The best you know is Jesus Christ, of whom it is written 'He went about doing good,' and concerning whom his enemy remarked 'I find no flaw in this man.'"

In his sermon to the graduation class Dr. McFarland said in part: "I have taken my thesis from a book which is 2000 years old and more. Why should one place at the center of this service a word that originated before the Dark Ages? We must ever remember De Quincy's distinction between literature of knowledge and literature of power. Books of knowledge are on their way to the wastebasket; books of power are freshest when oldest like some rare violin. The world is deluged with facts; its great need is to know their meaning. Such information comes through literature of power of which the Bible is the highest example. The Bible has nothing to say about our

we are in the time of the end. There never has been such a time of wonders. The signs of the end are all taking place 'in the time of the end.'

"A hundred years ago there were no telephones, telegraphs, electric cars, subways, elevated trains, few steamboats, no cable cars and the buggy was the latest. No electric lights, no Kerosene lamps, photographs, radios, sewing machines, newspapers, trash-cans, no India-rubber goods or celluloid goods. No gas engines, ice plants, typewriters, linotype and mark well 2,000,000 other things that did not exist nor had they been thought of in 1833. That was the year the stars fell 'like snowflakes' in December. Christ taught that that event marked off the last generation before His return again." Matt. 24.

Mr. Spear turned to the other phase of the text in which Daniel pointed out the increase of knowledge in God. This knowledge to go everywhere in the 'time of the end.' Continuing the speaker said: "The last 100 years has seen the Bible translated into more than 900 languages and circulated by the tens of millions in all nations. Following this work Jesus says, 'Then shall the end come.' (Matt. 24:14) The gospel having gone to the islands of the sea as well, they now wait for Christ to return. Isaiah says, 'Surely the isles shall wait for me.' And at the time they wait they look up and say, 'Who are these that fly as a cloud, and as doves to their windows?' Isa. 60:8,9.

ADVISES GRADUATING CLASS TO TAKE PART IN RETURNING BETTER CONDITIONS IN WORLD

Members of the graduating class of the Santa Ana High school were told last night by the Rev. C. M. Aker, pastor of the Spurgeon Memorial M. E. church to endure hardships in the formation of the changing era of civilization now at hand and to aid in the restoration of human well being through moral and spiritual control.

The Rev. Mr. Aker delivered the annual baccalaureate sermon at services held in the auditorium of the Santa Ana High school which was filled for the occasion. The service was presided over by the Rev. E. W. Matz, president of the Santa Ana Ministerial Union, assisted by the Rev. Percy F. Schrock, pastor of First Congregational church who made the opening prayer; the Rev. O. Scott McFarland, pastor of the First Presbyterian church who led in the scriptural reading; and the Rev. W. J. Hatter, pastor of Episcopal Church of the Messiah who pronounced the benediction.

Music for the ceremony was provided by the high school orchestra, the girls' and boys' octet and the girls' octet of the high school. The girls' and boys' octet sang Mozart's "Gloria," and the girls' octet sang Handel's "Hallelujah Chorus." The Rev. Mr. Aker took his sermon theme from Second Timothy 3:1 and said in part:

"Timothy, to whom the words of 'Endure hardness as a good soldier of Jesus Christ,' were addressed, was a favorite convert of the great apostle to the Gentiles. His home was a stopping place on his missionary journeys. He was also a co-laborer with Paul in establishing churches in New Testament times, and often was left in charge of the new organizations while the great missionary pushed plane circling the globe and returning to the hangar and port. "And because Jesus says that all things are now ready, He adds, 'Be ye ready also for in such an hour as ye think not the Son of Man Cometh.'" breakdown of our moral religious ideals. Roger Babson, Walter Lippman and other keen diagnosticians of modern conditions attribute our present financial, social and political crisis to collapse of moral and religious idealism. Honesty and chastity, and the common old-fashioned virtues have been lost sight of, in the scramble for profit and political power. What we must have is a restoration of moral and spiritual control before there can be any permanent restoration of prosperity and human well being.

"Jesus Christ, holds in His hand the key to the solution of the world's ills. He has given us in His sermon on the mount and in His other teaching left on record, in His life, death and resurrection, the charter to the only commonwealth that can succeed in the long run. He has declared that 'he that heareth these sayings of mine and doeth them shall be like a wise man that built his house upon a rock; but he that heareth these sayings of mine and doeth them not shall be like a foolish man that built upon the sand.'"

WEEKS CALIFORNIA CLUB GOLFERS BEAT S. A.

Phil Ball Spends Fortune As Browns' Owner

WILLIAM BRAUCHER

THE WARNING

The downfall of the French tennis dynasty, which has ruled since the star of Big Bill Tilden waned, seems assured this year. This, however, is not predicted entirely by the recent defeat of Henri Cochet by Jack Crawford, the rising Australian. For it happens that Jack Crawford is a pretty good sort of tennis player in his own right.

Five years ago George Lott gave me some fill-in on Crawford, whose 8-6, 6-1, 6-3 victory over Old Master Cochet was hailed as something of an upset.

"Watch Jack Crawford," said Lott. "Some of us were surprised when he beat Jean Borotra so decisively the other day (that was in 1928), but to my mind he is the coming star of the world. I had several matches against him, and must say that he impressed me strongly."

"I DON'T CARE"

He's a deceptive sort. Has an attitude of complete indifference as to whether he wins or loses. This tends to make his opponents careless. Mind you, it's not his intention to fool you. Just his natural reaction to the game. And when the pressure is on, he turns up with just the right shot at the right time. It's uncanny.

"His best shot is a forehand drive that brings to mind Jim Anderson, the old Australian Davis Cup player. He is a bit weak on backhand, but his drive is a beautiful free swing that he can place in any part of the court with ease. The straight-down-the-line shot, one of the most difficult for the average player, is pie for him."

TOO MUCH HEAT

Well, that was five years ago, and Crawford was only 20 then. Last December when Elsworth Vines toured Australia and way points, he stopped off at Melbourne to contest for the championship of Victoria.

Jack Crawford

In the finals he bumped up against this same Crawford, and lost on the chin, 1-6, 6-4, 6-4, 2-6, 6-4. Reports from the Antipodes said the intense heat affected Vines' play.

Maybe it was hot in Paris, too, the other day when Crawford crushed Cochet. Then again maybe the heat has nothing to do with the case.

AN OLD HEAD

He's a man who has been enjoying a ride now and then on the back of the good Mr. Khayyam. Is better than a green hand with the hawsees.

Two years ago he came very close to being the leading jockey of the season. The reason he didn't was Ivan Parke. That year Vines batted in 149 winners, and Parke batted in 148. Vines was under the wire with 173 starts.

WHAT PRICE CHAMPION?

This seems to be about as good a time as any to bring up the fact that some of our best jockeys never attain the dignity of champion. Earl Sande leads all in stakes and purses won, but he never was a year in which he beat the other boys in the number of winners scored. Oddly, one of his worst years from the money standpoint was 1931, when he won 158 races and that was more than he brought under the wire in any other year.

The highest paid jockey this year will not be Pete Wells, even though the horse he rides may become the three-year-old champion. Jockey Robert Jones will lead all hands in income tax payments.

Back in February, Jones signed with Willis Sharpe Kilmer for $12,000 for the year, plus 10 per cent of all the money won by the horses he rides. If this turns out to be an average year for Kilmer, the stable should win $200,000, which would boost the Jones income to $32,000—a pretty good money even if it does develop that it isn't.

Adding for other owners—and such jockeys as Jones usually demand a fat guarantee when they do this—the boy should pick up from $10,000 to $15,000 more. It looks like a $45,000 year for this young man.

MAGNATE MCATEE

For several years Pony McAttee, under contract to Marshall Field and Robert L. Gerry, was the highest paid boy in the country. His contract salary was $15,000, plus 10 per cent of winnings. During a couple of years his income is said to have been around $60,000. In one of the years, he came very close to $100,000.

$250,000 LOSS FAILS TO KILL LOVE OF GAME

By FRED BAILEY

(United Press Staff Correspondent)

ST. LOUIS, June 12.—(UP)—Philip DeCatesby Ball's hobby—a major league baseball club—has cost him more than a quarter of a million dollars in five years.

Few men in America spend $250,000 a year on one sport, and more especially to watch the other fellow play it. But Ball is considered a most unusual man.

More than half a century ago, when he first went to work in a small plumbing shop, he found as many excuses as possible to go to ball games. His ambition was to become a major league player.

Though he never realized his ambition even to the extent of becoming a professional player, he never lost his love for the game. While he was amassing millions as a plumbing manufacturer, his address each afternoon after 3 o'clock was the ball park.

Bought Team for Thrill

He purchased the St. Louis Browns, not as an investment, but for the thrill of watching his own team play. The franchise, team and ball park, which he later built, cost him more than a million dollars.

His ambition to see that team win a world's championship never has come even close to being realized.

When other owners refused to sell him players with which to build up his club, he spent another million dollars to build up his own minor league farm system to develop his own players.

Milwaukee in the American Association and San Antonio in the Texas League are Brownie "farms."

Probably no other club in either league has been built so completely by one man. Where others purchased major league stars, Ball developed them. Some of them are scattered among other clubs today, but many of them remain with the Browns.

Develops Own Players

Virtually every player on the Browns roster was either developed on one of the minor league farms, or obtained in trades from men trained there. The entire infield came up from the Texas league farm.

Ball is not merely the man who "pays the bills." He is the active director of the club, and makes all the player deals unassisted. A few years ago he traded General Crowder, pitcher, and Helme Manush, outfielder, to Washington for Goose Goslin.

Last winter he traded Goslin back to the Senators along with Fred Schulte and Walter Stewart, for Carl Reynolds, Sam West and Lloyd Brown. This spring he sold Brown and Rick Ferrell, one of the best young catchers in baseball, to the Boston Red Sox for a sum reported to be $50,000.

A short, chubby man with drooping shoulders and a snappy pace to his gait despite his 68 years, Ball sees every home game of the Browns from his special box. He takes the team's defeats philosophically and displays as much enthusiasm as a bleacherite when the team wins.

He's Different Type

Ball is a different type of baseball magnate. He does not seem to direct his business simply for the entertainment and amusement of the public. The ball game as played by his Browns is his greatest interest. He really feels that his squad is out there performing on the field for his own personal recreation.

This is best exemplified by an incident that occurred in 1923, when Bob Quinn was business manager of the club. Threatening skies kept attendance to about 500 and when rain started falling, Quinn ordered the game postponed.

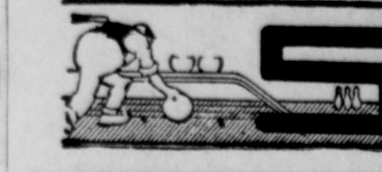

Ball appeared in Quinn's office a few minutes later and demanded to know why the game was called off. Quinn started to explain that the crowd would not pay expenses and that he could make more by booking a double header later in the season.

"Listen," Ball interrupted. "I'm paying the expenses around here. I hurried through my work to get out here and see a ball game, and after this don't you worry about the attendance. You play these games if I'm the only person in the park."

Since 1932 the Browns have postponed few games at home.

MRS. NOBLE, REX IN WILLOWICK VICTORY

Scoring an 86, Mrs. Ralph Noble and T. R. Rex finished first for low gross in mixed foursomes at the Willowick Golf club Sunday. Corrine Koonz and L. A. Townsend, 91-24-67, had low net. Second low net went to Neta Koonz and Frank Oslen, 90-22-65, and Mr. and Mrs. R. W. Bunce, 94-26-68.

3000 Injured In 1932 Prep Grid Games

SACRAMENTO, June 12.—(UP)—One out of every five boys who played high school football last season suffered injuries, it was reported today by N. P. Nielsen, chief of physical education of the state department of education, in an analysis of the gridiron toll for the California interscholastic federation.

More than 3000 were injured, or 22 per cent, on high school football fields in 1932, most of these injuries being of a minor or nature.

This analysis was asked by the interscholastic federation in its proposal to reduce the maximum permissive age of high school football players from 21 to 19 years.

MAHAN-FOSTER REMATCH SET FOR THURSDAY

Postponed last week, the eagerly awaited rematch between Champion "Dummy" Mahan and Challenger Neel Foster for the amateur lightweight title of the state will be run off at Delhi Thursday night.

Mahan shaded Foster in a spectacular bout two weeks ago. Foster's third round rally falling inches short. Matchmaker Kid Incledon planned to send them back at each other last Thursday but the affair was called off at the last minute on account of Foster's indisposition. The kid has recovered from a brief illness, however, and believes he'll dethrone Mahan this time. The weights will be 135 pounds.

One of the most attractive bouts in recent weeks has been arranged for the semi-final, Westminster's Bill Warr going against Tony Lee, New Orleans welterweight. Lee has been in several main events at Delhi. A New Orleans boy, he was the southside club's first amateur knockout sensation.

Little Pat Gillan, Anaheim's popular 105-pound buzzsaw, opposes Manuel Chavez of Wilmington in the special event.

Other bouts:

Nat Mills, Irvine, vs. Mike Garcia, Los Angeles, 138 pounds; Doyle Richards, Santa Ana vs. Amil Guerra, Wilmington, 165 pounds; Paul Brown, Santa Ana, vs. Battling Wicho, Wilmington, 125 pounds; Vic Orasco, Santa Ana, vs. Al Calvery, Los Angeles, 135 pounds; Al Garcia, Santa Ana, vs. John Mendez, Wilmington, 122 pounds; Johnny Orasco, Santa Ana, vs. Louis Saplen, Wilmington, 125 pounds; Don DeMarzo, Long Beach, vs. Rico Ponce, Los Angeles, 125 pounds.

COAST COLLEGES TO OPPOSE PROSELYTING

SPOKANE, Wash., June 12.—(UP)—The Pacific Coast conference, which today worked out in a gymnasium in U. S. Open title night, the "Big C" club of California, recently announced it would appoint a paid, full-time executive to scout high schools for promising athletic material. Such players, the conference delegates felt, would be ineligible.

"Soliciting of athletes directly or indirectly by coaches or representatives of the athletic organizations of any member of the conference, or by any person engaged or employed (either with or without salary or expense allowance) by any organization (alumni or otherwise) or individual for the principal or incidental purpose of soliciting athletes, is prohibited," the faculty members said in a prepared statement.

The conference agreed to continue scouting of opponents' football teams, and to place radio broadcasts under stricter control of college authorities. Graduate managers rejected a proposal limiting the size of football squads.

PARKER BEATS LOTT

LOUISVILLE, Ky., June 12.—(UP)—Frankie Parker, young Milwaukee tennis star, retained his Kentucky singles championship today as the result of a victory in the final round yesterday over George Lott, Chicago Davis Cup player, 5-7, 6-2, 6-2, 7-6.

CAMPARI WINS GRAND PRIX

PARIS, June 12.—(UP)—An Italian, Signor Campari, won the 27th annual Grand Prix of the Automobile club of France yesterday, driving his Maserati special over the 500 kilometers at 181.14 kilometers an hour.

These Boys Went Hot on Eve of Open

Santa Ana Stars Begin Series Of Three Road Tilts

Greatly encouraged by their 6-0 shutout victory over Olive last Friday which shattered a long losing streak, Santa Ana's Stars take to the road tomorrow night for a series of three games away from home.

The first excursion takes Manager "Eeny" Wilcox's men to Fullerton, the second to Torrance Friday night, the third to Anaheim June 20.

Other games tomorrow beside Santa Ana-Fullerton: Anaheim at Westminster and Huntington Beach at Whittier. Olive and Torrance have postponed their contest until Wednesday night.

287 ENTER BRITISH OPEN GOLF TOURNEY

LONDON, June 12.—(UP)—A field of 287 today entered the British Open golf championship at St. Andrews, July 3-7.

The field includes 44 foreigners, representing 12 countries.

Of the foreign countries the United States has the largest entry—16. Nine of the U. S. players are members of the originally named Ryder Cup team. Billy Burke, Greenwich, Conn., former U. S. Open champion, named last night as tenth member of the team, has not formally been entered but it was probable that, as a courtesy, he would be allowed to compete.

Other players include Joe Kirkwood, formerly of Australia, now of Coral Gables, Fla.; Johnny Farrell, Quaker Ridge, N. Y., former U. S. Open champion; Joshua Crane, Brookline, Mass., perennial amateur entrant in British meets; Joseph Ezar, Waco, Tex.; George Dunlap, Pomona, N. Y., amateur.

The nine Ryder cuppers are Gene Sarazen, Coral Gables, Fla., who Saturday lost his U. S. Open title; Walter Hagen, Olin Dutra, Paul Runyan, Densmore Shute, Craig Wood, Ed Dudley, Leo Diegel and Horton Smith.

FIELDS-CORBETT GO SOUGHT BY GALLERY

LOS ANGELES, June 12.—(UP)—Jackie Fields, former welterweight champion, today worked out in a gymnasium to keep in shape for a possible elimination bout with Young Corbett for the right to meet Jimmy McLarnin, who won the championship from Corbett May 29.

Tom Gallery, boxing promoter for the Dreamland arena in San Francisco and the Olympic auditorium here, has been working on the match for the last few days. He is undecided whether to schedule the contest in Los Angeles or San Francisco. Fields, who lost the title to Corbett in San Francisco last Washington's birthday, recently defeated Young Peter Jackson, Negro lightweight.

MILLER IN MATCH With Arizmendi

SAN FRANCISCO, June 12.—(UP)—Freddie Miller, featherweight ruler of N. B. A. territory, makes his initial bow to San Francisco ring fans tonight in a scheduled 10-round engagement with Baby Arizmendi, former claimant to the crown.

Rene Lacoste has been made non-playing captain of the French Davis cup tennis team. He takes the place of M. Gillou.

ELDER TO RIDE HERE: ALBRECHT AND GIBB WIN

"Sprouts" Elder, motorcycle racing champion of the world on short tracks, will compete in a series of races against 50 other professionals at the Santa Ana Municipal Bowl next Saturday night.

Elder will go after a record on the new track which has been entered since last year. He will bring here his imported racing machines which include three Ridges for the heat events and J. A. P. machines for his special match race and lap-record attempt.

Elder has ridden on all important speedways in Europe and won the international championship against the best of the European riders. He is 31 years, now resides in Fresno.

Burton Albrecht and Jimmy Gibb won the final scratch and final handicap races respectively, at the Bowl last Saturday night, a crowd of approximately 1500 attending.

Albrecht turned the four laps (four-fifths of a mile) 1 min. 2 sec., three-fifths of a second slower than his winning time in the semi-finals. Gibb stopped the watches in 1:05.1.

Albrecht was trailed in order by Ed Hinkle, Byrd McKinney and George Lannom. Back of Gibb were Albrecht, "Slim" Myers and Lannom.

An added attraction was the daring "fence-crash" by Jack Barry, a New York rider, who at a high rate of speed smashed through a flaming board fence.

Summary of final races:

First semi-final: Burton Albrecht, first; Ed Hinkle, second; Tom Cox, third; Mark Porter, fourth. Time, 1 min. 1-5 sec.

Second semi-final: George Lannom, first; Rusty Roberts, second; Byrd McKinney, third; Bo Lismann, fourth. Time, 1 min. 3-1-5 sec.

Final scratch race—Burton Albrecht, first; Ed Hinkle, second; Byrd McKinney, third; George Lannom, fourth. Time, 1 min. 2 sec.

Final handicap race—Burton Albrecht, first; Ed Hinkle, second; Byrd McKinney, third; George Lannom, fourth. Time, 1 min. 2 sec.

BROWNING FAVORITE OVER JOE SAVOLDI

NEW YORK, June 12.—(UP)—Jim Browning of Verona, Mo., recognized as world heavyweight wrestling champion in New York territory, was an 8-to-5 favorite today to retain his title claims tonight against "Jumping Joe" Savoldi, former Notre Dame football star in their scheduled finish match at Yankee stadium. Browning, who specializes in the airplane scissors, will weigh about 210 pounds, Savoldi about 203.

GOODMAN, NEW GOLF KING, TO STAY AMATEUR

BY GEORGE KIRKSEY

(United Press Staff Correspondent)

CHICAGO, June 12.—(UP)—A few notes on Johnny Goodman, the new National Open golf champion:

He's 23 and weighs 150. He's 5 feet, 6 inches in height and looks stocky. Has blond hair, parted on the left side and slicked down.

He's strictly an amateur and plays golf for the fun of it. After winning the "open" title with 287 strokes, one under par for 72 holes, in which 36 of them were played Saturday, he went back to the North Shore course and played another 18 holes Sunday with friends. He shot a 35-35-74, two over par, on yesterday's round.

Although he could make between $30,000 and $40,000 by turning professional, he has steadfastly resolved to remain amateur.

Seeks Walker Cup Berth

One of his greatest ambitions is to play on the 1934 Walker Cup team which invades England. The U. S. G. A. politely snubbed Goodman in selecting the 1930 and 1932 teams, although he has beaten Francis Ouimet, Charlie Seaver and Maurice McCarthy jr., three members of the 1932 team.

He got a greater kick out of winning the open tournament than beating Bobby Jones. He says the Jones victory only served to show him how much he has to learn about golf. He realized after watching Jones putt that he was a novice on the green. He tried to copy Jones' putting stance and stroke, and has been at it faithfully.

He's an ex-caddy and was destined to work in a meat packing plant until he learned to play golf. He won his first tournament with a borrowed set of clubs. He hitch-hiked his way to Denver to win the Trans-Mississippi tournament.

He's Insurance Agent

Until he won the National Open he never had won a major golf title, but had beaten Jones, played in the final of the National Amateur and finished low amateur in the 1932 National Open—quite a record in itself.

He works as a special agent for the National Thrift Insurance company when he's in Omaha.

Unassuming and modest, when the championship trophy and gold medal were presented to him he boyishly blurted out before 4000 people, "Am I happy?" and set off an electrical ovation.

The day before the tournament opened he was tired after a practice, and he flopped on a hard bench in the locker room and slept Sunday for two hours while raucous laughter and high voices echoed back and forth. That same content over his nervous system stood him in good stead in that battle down the stretch when Ralph Guldahl, young St. Louis professional, came within a stroke of tying him.

Crowd Attends Baccalaureate Services Sunday Night

STUDENTS WILL GET DIPLOMAS ON JUNE 15TH

FULLERTON, June 12.—To the organ strains of Verdi's march from "Aida," 244 graduates of Fullerton Union High school filed into the auditorium last night at 8 o'clock for the baccalaureate exercises of the school. A large crowd was present.

The students wore gray gowns and caps, the one bit of color being the red and white tassel on the caps, the colors being the school shades.

The high school graduates will receive their diplomas at exercises on the lawn of the school Thursday, starting at 4:30 p. m. Dr. Walter Dexter, president of Whittier college, will bring the address. Junior college exercises will be at the auditorium at 7:30 p. m., Tuesday.

Rev. Hoffman Speaks

The Rev. E. Dow Hoffman of Fullerton Methodist church brought the baccalaureate message, taking as his subject "Living in the Past, Present and Future," and told the young people that the challenge of the day is to live in the present for the future, and to live in the past, only as a building foundation.

"With the latent power lying in this large group of young people, there is enough to do anything that needs doing for this country," he said at opening, after reading as his text the Scripture, "Whatsoever a man soweth, that shall he also reap."

"Life is like a cafeteria," he said. "No waiter will bring you success; you must help yourself and then you will be able to help others, and the real test of success is what you are able to do for others."

In outlining his subject, he told of the failures of peoples who have tended to live entirely in the past; of others who live entirely in the future, and suggest the three, the respect for the past, and the use of that past as foundational building, with a dream of the future and accomplishment toward which to build.

Success Through Work

"And remember," he said, "no man becomes great by accident. He reaps greatness, and success, through work; you must work out your own salvation, for it is true that whatever you sow, you reap."

Pointing to Abraham Lincoln as an example, the speaker said, "and like Lincoln, serve humanity even if it costs you your life. Sow mightily to the best that is in you, and you reap mightily; live in the present, but consider the end of your lives, and do not live with the trivialities of the present."

A. S. Redfern, vice principal of the school, presided. Miss Myrtle Klahn played as a prelude, "The Meistersingers," by Wagner, on the organ, and followed it by the processional hymn, "The congregation hymns were 'All Hail the Power' and 'Teach Me, O Lord, The Holy Way,' directed by Miss Ruth Tilton, who led in a mixed chorus production of Reginald DeKoven's 'Recessional'."

The Rev. D. J. Brigham, pastor of Placentia Presbyterian church, led in the opening prayer, and the Rev. Joseph Reese, pastor of the Yorba Linda Friends church, read the Scripture lesson and dismissed the audience with prayer.

Miss Klahn played as a recessional, the march from H. J. Stewart's "John of Nepomuk," and the audience remained standing as the graduates filed out of the auditorium.

Joseph Weaver, of Fullerton, attended the bridegroom as best man, and Irvin Lotze, a cousin of the bridegroom, was ring bearer.

Miss Mildred Mauerhan played the Bridal Chorus from Wagner's "Lohengrin" as the wedding march and Miss Fern Hein, of Anaheim, sang "Sweet Mystery of Life" and "Sweethearts Forever," preceding the ceremony.

Following the ceremony and the reception, held at the home of the bride's parents, the young couple left for a short honeymoon, and on their return will reside at Highland avenue and West Orangethorpe. She wore a blue silk plaid sports suit for the honeymoon.

The bride was graduated from the Placentia grammar school; and from the Fullerton Union High school in 1932. In 1931, the bridegroom was graduated from Fullerton Union High school.

Besides the bridal party, those attending the reception were Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Friend, Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Lotze, Mr. and Mrs. Oveline Kerr, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Lotze, Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Lotze, and Mrs. John Lotze, Mr. and Mrs. William Lotze, Mr. and Mrs. John Hoffman, Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Holve, Mr. and Mrs. Alec Holve, Mr. and Mrs. Gus Holve, Mr. and Mrs. William Holve, Mr. Emily Holve, Mr. and Mrs. Conrad Musch, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Peter, Mr. Jack Vincent, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Pennier, Mr. and Mrs. H. Above and below that figure the time required is longer. If alcohol is applied to tissue in greater than 10 per cent it acts as an irritant, causing redness, and a sensation of burning. On the skin in concentrations of from 40-50 per cent it dissolves the fatty layer and precipitates the surface proteins, causing a drying and a hardening after repeated rubbings, lessening the tendency to bedsores in bedridden patients.

"Gastric secretion is affected by its intake. There is an increased secretion for about two hours, if alcohol is taken in concentrations under 10 per cent. Moderate doses of alcohol interfere with the process of logical continued reasoning, and with that of precision of movement.

"No appreciable effect is noted upon the respiration. On muscular work it is not a true stimulant, neither on voluntary or involuntary muscle. On the liver there appears evidence of damage in function and tissue."

"After absorption into the blood stream, alcohol is distributed to every part of the organism. Because of its quick diffusibility it penetrates rapidly into all the body tissues. In an extensive study, Gettler and Tiber found that the brain tissue of intoxicated persons dying in Bellevue hospital a few hours after admission contained from 0.27 to 0.51 per cent alcohol. Most of the alcohol ingested is burned in the body. The amount stated is usually 90-95 per cent. It is estimated that it requires about three to eight hours to burn or oxidize about 30CC, which is about one ounce. Only a small amount is excreted by the lungs and kidneys."

"Alcohol is one of the group of drugs classed as narcotics, whose dominant action is a depression of function of all forms of living tissue. There is some evidence that the depressant effects of this group are preceded by a short stage of stimulation, provided the narcotic be applied in sufficient dilution.

"As a disinfecting agent alcohol has long had a use. It has been found that a 70 per cent solution has the most immediate effective killing power on bacteria."

WRITER POINTS OUT DANGER OF BEER DRINKING

(Editor's note: The Citizens' Dry committee of Fullerton has contributed the following article, "Questions About Beer Drinking," which was published in the Los Angeles Times of April 6, 1933.)

By ROCKWELL D. HUNT

Who will drink legal beer and why, has been a super-jigsaw puzzle tough enough for our city trustees and county supervisors. In a hectic endeavor to fit the numerous scraps together into semblance of a coherent mosaic, many a troublesome little question has emerged; and nobody yet seems quite sure that the correct answers have been found.

Being a student of economics and of reflecting mind with regard to this somewhat weighty subject, I have a few questions of my own that may serve to illustrate certain paradoxical phases of the issue of beer drinking. Here is an installment, which he who thinks may read.

If great masses of the people do not now possess purchasing power for the common necessities of life, with what magic currency can they buy beer?

If beer drinking is to be stimulated for the sake of public revenue, then is not the consumption of flour, meat and vegetables thereby correspondingly reduced?

If beer is a harmless temperance drink, why all this talk about forbidding its sale in the proximity of schools, colleges and churches?

If beer is a wholesome, innocent beverage, on what fiscal theory should it be so heavily taxed?

If beer tax is a sumptuary law, calculated to discourage excessive consumption, how can anybody then defend the goal of maximum revenue?

If the purpose of the tax on beer is really to discourage consumption, then how can an elusive tax be expected to be as effective as prohibition?

If legal beer is of low alcoholic content while home brew and bootleg are of much higher content, how is legitimate beer going to stop home brewing and bootlegging?

If beer is the temperance drink that it is claimed to be, not inconsistent with the Eighteenth amendment, then why the vociferous demand that it shall not be consumed on the premises where sold except with meals?

If the effect of beer is to slow down the intellect even if only to the extent of five per cent, can we in our time afford such a loss of intellectual acumen?

If the speed of our motor vehicles is accelerating yearly, can anyone imagine that the consump-

WASHINGTON

RAILS

Few people can out-talk Mr. Roosevelt. He is at his best when he meets his opponents face to face.

The way he put over the labor amendments in the Railroad Bill without saying a public word about them is a good illustration of how he works.

There was strong opposition to those amendments. The railroads were fighting mad. More important were the objections lodged by Chairman Sam Rayburn of the house committee and Joseph Eastman who is to administer the law. Rayburn could have killed the bill. He instigated a private meeting with the president. Eastman was present. They were to persuade Mr. Roosevelt that the labor amendments were unfeasible.

Fifteen minutes later they came out of the conference pledged to the Roosevelt plan.

Little birds who sat in the window during those meetings say Mr. Roosevelt let Rayburn talk. He was pleasant and did not argue.

When Rayburn had concluded the president threw up his hands saying in effect: "You fellows better get together behind those amendments." Rayburn was required to champion the amendments on the floor of the house.

He is a very capable man and did his job thoroughly, if somewhat reluctantly.

Eastman was not as strongly opposed to the amendments as Rayburn. It was easier for him to swallow the pill.

The railroads did not feel any better about it when they lost their fight against the bill. They may co-operate with the administration and then again they may not. Their spokesmen whisper they will probably go along with Eastman only when it is to their advantage to do so.

Increased traffic is already encouraging them to cease mourning about the legislation. Loadings last week were 541,000 cars. That is astounding. Usually business drops off the last week in May on a summer decline. This time it increased. Movement of grain, lumber and manufactured products is largely responsible. People are buying out of season now because they fear prices will be higher later on.

But no matter how happy the railroads get you may be sure they will not bend any ties to help the program along.

The prospects for success for the program, but not very much. Economies will be wrought but nothing like the economies Mr. Roosevelt had in mind six weeks back.

PARTY
The Rooseveltians have won the Washington press corps.

The final touch was a private party for 400 newsmen and their wives at the White House. It was the first time a press party had been held by a president. The boys wondered what to wear. Some said tailcoats. That is the usual garb for presidential parties. Finally they decided that inasmuch as this is a Democratic administration black ties would be in order.

The 500 guests found Mr. Roosevelt lounging in a corner of the East Room. He wore a linen suit full of wrinkles.

When someone asked him about it he replied: "This is my tennis suit."

The smooth informality of the party was unmatched in these surroundings since the Andrew Jackson period. There was no receiving line. People strolled around. When Mrs. Roosevelt saw someone standing alone in a corner, she singled him out for conversation.

Mr. Roosevelt's own quarters sang some songs. It is composed of three newspapermen and one of the secretaries. The tenor was the worst but Mr. Roosevelt thought it sounded sweet after recent noises he has heard from congress.

Mr. Coolidge served ice water at receptions. The Hoovers served ice cream. The Roosevelts had sandwiches also.

This may sound like a social note to you, but it is not. Such things build the background for the picture of this administration.

WHITE
They had a reason for sending Francis White to Czechoslovakia. Hiram Johnson insisted he be sent somewhere where he could not telephone the National City Bank.

Johnson's sentiments date back to the foreign bond investigation. That inquiry disclosed White had some telephonic communications with those who were floating foreign bonds.

As a career diplomat White rated a good post. He would have received a better one had it not been for the warnings Johnson passed around inside.

VETERANS
The inside on the veterans' mistakes is not hard to understand. They tried to do 6 months' work in 30 days. They worked through 54 regional offices. Officials believe each office probably made 100 human mistakes. That means they believe there were only about 5400 mistakes. The private mail of senators indicated more than that.

Those who drew the regulations are Veterans Administrator Hines, Assistant Treasury Secretary Douglas and J. O'Connor Roberts, general counsel of the Veterans Administration.

TAXES
The Treasury had nothing to do with instituting the Harrison tax plan. It was admittedly better than any the Treasury had suggested.

It was worked out for Senator Harrison by Mr. Parker of the Joint Congressional committee on taxation. The original idea is supposed to have come from Barney Baruch.

It was foolishly called a capital stock tax. It really is a NET WORTH TAX. That means you only pay on the existing value of the stock, not its issuing price. That will make a lot of difference these days.

NOTES
Treasury Secretary Woodin appears to be preparing for a long stay. He has recently been dealing with a Washington newspaperman he wants as an executive assistant. The Navy investigation probably will start a new ballyhoo for building dirigibles.

... Navy men generally hate to abandon any branch of the service even if it is impractical. The truth is that most navy men will privately agree two good airplane carriers are better scouting agencies at sea than a dozen dirigibles.

... The plan can cover ten times as much territory and are not much of a target for anti-aircraft guns.

During the absence of State Secretary Hull the department is being run, theoretically at least, by Undersecretary Phillips.

He is a typical career diplomat, very cautious about telling anything.

NEW YORK
By James McMullin

REVOLT
The congressional revolt against President Roosevelt has peaked up his conservative New York opponents no end. Even though the revolt is chiefly on the radical side they see an opportunity to drive a wedge into his party support which will split conservatives away from him.

Their tactics—pursued very subtly—involve the charge that he has encouraged radicalism by fostering left wing legislation—even though it has not been translated into action. They spread the word privately that he will not be able to withstand radical pressure and will get us involved in ruinous inflation.

This element hasn't made many converts yet but they are spurring their undercover efforts now. They are in constant touch with friends in Washington—in congress and out—who can be counted on to fan the flames. They know enough to keep mum so far as the public is concerned but are "boring from within" in quarters where they think it will do the most good.

There is no question of a standard-bearer yet. The immediate objective is simply to spread the idea that Mr. Roosevelt is getting us tangled up in a maze of impractical policies.

GOLD
The first step to be taken against the gold hoarders will be equivalent to a slap on the wrist.

The hoarding brethren will be asked whether they still have the gold and won't they please give it back. If the government hopes to avoid a showdown by this system it is for a disappointment.

The fact is that several large hoarders actually believe they have the government on the run. They claim they will battle any legal action right up to the Supreme Court on constitutional grounds. They may change their minds if the public reaction to the publication of their names—which is probable within a month—is sufficiently sharp.

Europe would certainly be delighted to have us go back to the gold standard. There has been more subtle propaganda from European sources late loose to the end in the financial district than you could shake a stick at. The propaganda of private debts in some cases unless something is done. But it all goes to waste, because Wall Street knows perfectly well that there is nothing it can do about it.

New York hears that British political circles are wondering whether Prime Minister MacDonald will be eased out by way of a "promotion" to the House of Lords. It is freely predicted that there will be some reconstruction of the government before the end of the year.

Reports have been received here that Britain's seasonal trade improvement is three times normal. The number of ships passing through the port of London is said to be higher than it has been for years. The net tonnage of vessels leaving British ports for abroad in March showed a gain over the corresponding month a year earlier for the first time in three years.

The inside reason for England's determination not to stabilize the pound is her fear of a wholesale withdrawal of the gold which American French and other hoarders have stored away in her vaults. Administration circles here have been privately told that British reluctance to stabilize cannot be overcome without assurance that the pound will not be left at the mercy of such withdrawals.

FRANCE
The French are afraid that the British loan to the Treasury will be exhausted in two months and that France will be unable to meet her obligations to England at maturity. This would probably result in inflation rather than default. There is said to be small hope that financial rehabilitation can be brought about in time to avoid it.

GERMANY
The index of the new German secret police is filling rapidly with names of "suspects." Anyone who is considered "unreliable" in his attitude toward the new regime can be sure to get the attention of Goehring's G.P.U. Many American names are in this file, especially newspaper publishers and editors.

A Nazi deputy recently made a speech proclaiming that the party would not rest "until the German flag floats in every corner of the Reich on the royal chateau at Poznan, at Katowice, at Danzig, in the cities of Alsace and Lor-

BANDIT SUSPECT IDENTIFIED BY HOLDUP VICTIM

Wilmer Gray was definitely identified this morning in Superior court by Miss Ruth Jenkins, operator of the Ruth Jenkins Sandwich Shop on South Main street as the bandit who, on the night of April 9 ordered her at the point of a gun to open the cash register of her shop and give him all her cash.

Called as the first witness at Gray's trial on a charge of first degree robbery, Miss Jenkins identified Gray as the man who held the gun and Parley Holt as his companion in the robbery. Holt who has entered the plea of not guilty by reason of insanity will be tried as to his sanity Wednesday afternoon.

Miss Jenkins said that Gray and Holt entered her sandwich shop and after eating sandwiches at the fountain Gray drew a revolver and ordered one customer behind the counter. Miss Jenkins said that he forced the customer to stand facing the wall.

Gray then approached Miss Jenkins and ordered her to give him all the money in the cash register. She said that when she attempted to argue with him Gray cursed her and kicked her. Miss Jenkins said that she opened the cash register and gave Gray approximately $47.

Asked by District Attorney S. B. Kaufman if she was certain that Gray was the man who held the gun and kicked her Miss Jenkins said:

"I am positive."

She was being cross examined by Carl Helm, attorney for Gray when the noon recess came. Attempts to shake her story and identification of Gray and Holt had failed up to noon.

Jurors selected to hear evidence in the case were: Robie H. Schlesinger, Ada B. Boyce, Mrs. Minnie Bremer, Mrs. Maude Swarthout, Mrs. Edith Brown, Mrs. Etta L. Rogers, B. P. Donnelly, Mrs. Anna Kester, Frank L. Eastman, Mrs. Velma Pomeroy, F. R. Schweitzer, and Frank Borth.

Jurors in Schleswig and in Austria.

Substantial German business men visiting New York will tell you the same thing quite gravely, if occasion offers.

SIDELIGHTS
Retail automobile sales have been going up nine weeks straight. Last week's gain was the biggest. The June figures may reach 190,000. The most expensive makes are beginning to feel it too. The Rock Island has no money to pay interest on July 1. The R.F.C. won't help. The bankers may have to even if it hurts. Some of their own will get it in the neck if they don't.

The directors also approve No. 5, which provides for re-assessment of property in the earthquake zones in Orange and Los Angeles county. No. 3 is the horse racing amendment which will be explained only by Geo. Macleod and the matter will be left to individual members to act as they deem best. 'ZEKE'S BUNCH' HOLDS REUNION IN IRVINE PARK

Under spreading trees in Irvine park, "Zeke's Bunch," as the group composed of former students of J. J. Zellan, who taught at Tustin grammar school from 1889 to 1907 is known, gathered yesterday for an annual picnic and reunion.

The committee in charge of arrangements for the reunion yesterday was composed of W. M. Huntley, Dan D. Adams and Charles F. Logan. More than 300 invitations were sent out. From many points former pupils of the instructor came to enjoy the program, many of them with their families. A picnic luncheon was enjoyed during the noon hour.

Members of the group enjoyed recounting the old days when they attended school and classes taught by Zellan.

In a brief talk, Zellan, the honored guest, expressed his pleasure at meeting friends and former pupils again at an annual reunion.

Many letters and cards from people unable to attend the affair were read and plans to meet again at Irvine park next year were discussed.

LARGE CROWD AT PATRIOTIC MEET IN PARK

Featured by the presence of a large crowd a Flag Day program was presented in Irvine park yesterday by veteran organizations of Orange county under the sponsorship of the Santa Ana Allied Veterans council.

An educational and stirring address was delivered by A. P. Entenza, past national commander-in-chief of the United Spanish War Veterans, noted national figure, who was the featured speaker.

During his talk Entenza declared that veterans, whose services for their country instilled unquestioned respect for the flag, must assume responsibility for allegiance to the stars and stripes by every citizen in the nation.

The speaker said that dire results have accrued from the recent Economy act, and cited cases of two large corporations, whose stock, he said, is controlled, one wholly and the other in part, by foreign countries, who contributed to the National Economy league to suppress benefits to war veterans.

He emphasized the necessity of every citizen casting his ballot at all elections, stating that voters should be careful to select candidates who would deal fairly with all questions relating to the great middle class.

Stanley Reinhaus, chairman of the committee in charge of arrangements for the exercises, introduced the speaker and announced that the program was dedicated to the flag. The young son of Jules W. Markel, chairman of the Allied Council, led an allegiance to the flag ceremony. Department Chaplain William Brown, of the United Spanish War Veterans, gave the invocation, while Fay F. Graduation Precedes Home Wedding Ceremony

Two of girlhood's most joyous occasions were events of one evening for Miss Gertrude E. Mangold, whose marriage to Victor Caronna of the U. S. S. Saratoga followed immediately after her graduation from Tustin Union high school Thursday evening.

The marriage ceremony was read at 8:30 o'clock by the Rev. A. C. Bode of Orange in the ranch home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Mangold, East Seventeenth street.

Deep pink gladioli were effectively combined with delphiniums in bouquets decking the pretty home for the memorable occasion.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, John Mangold, was girlishly lovely in white embroidered organza with which she wore a smart close-fitting suit.

Her flowers, arranged in shower effect, were white tints, adding a bit of sentiment to her costume.

A gold bracelet which her mother had worn at her marriage just 22 years ago.

Her sister, Miss Helen Mangold, as maid of honor, wore pink chiffon with a corsage bouquet of sweet peas. Barbara Boose, charming little flower girl, wore white organza. Al Chaffee of the U. S. S. Lexington attended Mr. Caronna as best man.

During the informal reception which followed the ceremony, refreshments of ice cream and wedding cake were served. Mrs. Mangold was gowned in blue chiffon, with corsage bouquet of Cecil Brunner roses.

The young Mr. and Mrs. Caronna left for Long Beach, where the Saratoga is stationed at present. They expect to make their home in that city.

Wedding guests were Messrs. and Mesdames John Veeh, Edwin Kogler, Charles Borchard, Henry Ehlen, Fred Eckhoff of Orange; Messrs. and Mesdames John Boose, Frank Buchheim and daughter, Frances, Henry Gerken, O. Johnson and Mrs. H. A. Boose and family, Mrs. R. E. Lehman, Mrs. Johanna Weick, the Misses Stella Christ, Ruth Johnson, Ruth Boose, Jeannette Veeh, Clara Ehlen, Charlotte Veeh, Billie Muffelman, Norma Mathias, Helen Mangold and Messrs. Al Chaffee, Leonard Gerken, Orville Veeh, Bill Lehman, John Veeh Jr., Dick Ehlen, Harold Bolmer, Otto Weick, Fred Mangold, a brother of the bride, and Mr. and Mrs. Mangold.

Mr. Caronna's parents live in New Jersey.

Simplicity Of Nuptial Rites Observed In Fullerton Home

That complete simplicity with which wedding rites were observed last night at 7 o'clock for Miss Maude Hatch and Richard C. Radcliffe, both of Santa Ana, added to the effective beauty of the ceremony for the scores of relatives and close friends assembled in the home of the bride's uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Albert O. Johnson, 619 North Spadra street, Fullerton.

A fireplace, banked with gladioli whose delicate colors were repeated in the sweet peas which lined the mantel, offered an especially colorful background for the rites, in which the young people took their vows before the Rev. George F. Tinsley, pastor of Fullerton First Christian church.

Miss Hatch was a lovely bride, wearing white organza, very long and bouffant as to skirt, and with a cleverly moulded bodice. A great sheaf of glowing blue delphiniums combined with pink roses, formed a bridal bouquet in keeping with the crisp freshness of her frock.

Mrs. Wayne Moon of the city, was a charming young honor matron in daffodil yellow organza, carrying orchid and pink sweet peas. Frank Radcliffe attended his brother as best man.

During the informal reception which followed, the new Mrs. Radcliffe took special interest in cutting her bridal cake, for it had been baked, iced and decorated by her aunt, Mrs. Johnson.

The departure of the newly-weds followed shortly after the refreshment hour, and Mrs. Radcliffe was smart in a beige tulle with all matching accessories. They will spend their honeymoon at La Jolla, later returning to establish home in this city where Mr. Radcliffe is with the Western Dairy Products company.

He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Radcliffe of Richmond, Calif., who with their daughter, Miss Kathryn Radcliffe, were here for the wedding. The bride's mother, Mrs. Cora Hatch of Spirit Lake, Iowa, was unable to be present. The bride has been in this city for the past three years, and is in the office of the Telephone company.

New officers of Fourth Household Economic section of Eboli society proved to be delightful hostesses Friday afternoon when members of the section were entertained at a garden party on the grounds of the home of Mrs. S. A. Jones, 2327 Benton way, bringing to a close their meetings for this season.

In the hostess group were Mrs. A. Thordike, re-elected leader; Mrs. Jones, associate leader; Mrs. O. H. Umberham, secretary; Mrs. Walter Hickey, treasurer. Mrs. Thordike presided over the short business session.

Five tables of bridge were in play during the afternoon. Attractive prize awards were won by Mrs. S. A. Jones, who scored high, and Mrs. McClelland of El Modena, second high.

The serving of refreshments concluded the pleasant afternoon.

ANN MEREDITH'S MIXING BOWL

EAT AND GROW SLIM

Breakfast
1-2 cantaloupe
2 slices crisp bacon
2 thin slices rye bread
Toast, buttered
1 teaspoon honey for toast
1 cup of coffee with
1-4 cup hot skim milk, no sugar.
Calory total, 360.

A full slice of uncooked bacon has a calory value of 100. When cooked this total shrinks to 25, the difference lying in the fat which cooks out of the bacon.

To cook bacon correctly, put it on a cold pan and cook it over a rather slow fire, pouring off the fat as it cooks out of the bacon. There is another way which I like better: put the bacon in a pan and cook it in a medium hot oven until crisp, lift the bacon out of the hot fat and drain before serving (an instant on a fork does the draining act.)

TODAY'S RECIPE

Cooked Vegetable Salad
1 peeled tomato for each salad
2 tbsps. cooked green peas
2 tbsps. diced cooked carrot
6 stalks of cooked asparagus
6 slices crisp cucumber
1 stuffed egg
Heart of lettuce garnish.

With hot weather coming on, you will want to serve fewer hot dinners and more cool porch suppers. Let me recommend this salad when you want something utterly delicious, filling, and easy on the eyes. And on you, too, for the vegetables must all be cooked and ready to serve.

Allow one large tomato for each serving.

One stuffed egg for each salad.

And other vegetables in proportion: the green peas and cubed carrot and asparagus should be cooked and well chilled.

Arrange lettuce hearts on the salad plates and each vegetable by itself, the halved stuffed eggs on opposite sides of the plate. Dress with a liberal amount of my buttermilk mayonnaise. Do you know how to make it?

Buttermilk Mayonnaise

3 egg yolks
1 tsp. prepared mustard
1 tsp. each of salt and sugar
1 pint of salad oil
1-4 cup vinegar
1 pint thick buttermilk
paprika, ad lib.
Have bowl, whip and ingredients all well chilled... that's imperative to success!

In the bowl put egg yolks and all seasonings beat paprika. Beat to mix, then start the oil dripping very slowly until the mayonnaise gets very thick. Begin adding a little vinegar at this stage, alternating it with oil. When the mayonnaise is made, work in the chilled buttermilk, slowly and carefully. If added too fast it may curdle the dressing. After the milk is used work in paprika until the mayonnaise is a soft pink color.

Here's the lovely part of this buttermilk mayonnaise! Each tablespoonful has a calory value of 40 against 100 for the all-oil type. That means the even the Pleasing Plumps can eat their salads without fear of taking on an extra pound or two. If they forego bread and dessert for the meal. The one thing to watch is not to let the mayonnaise freeze. It will curdle.

Tuesday: Gooseberry Tart.

World Travelers Feel Their Latest Trip Most Enjoyable

Mr. and Mrs. Samuel W. Nau, Prospect avenue, Tustin, to whom a trip to Europe or departure for some distant island of the South Seas is almost as ordinary as the average Californian's departure for the Yosemite or the Grand Canyon, reached home on Saturday from what they declare to have been their most thoroughly enjoyable girdling of the globe.

Docking at Los Angeles harbor on the President McKinley, they came directly to their Tustin home, although Miss Lula Minter, 322 West Third street, who enjoyed the extended trip with them, proceeded to Los Angeles for a few days' visit with friends before her return here.

Contrary to expectations, the travelers encountered very little really hot weather at any point on the leisurely journey. In Japan, they found it actually cold, and even in the Philippines and again in India where they had thought to endure unusual heat, they were luckily surprised by distinctly mild weather.

Their longest stay with one exception, was in India where they had planned to give as much time as seemed expedient for proper study and understanding of the country. In every port of call of the President liners, they lingered according to their fancy, sometimes missing several sailing dates in order to enjoy scenes and surroundings so entirely new and strange.

When the Santa Anas left on the extended voyage it was with the intention of spending Easter in the Holy Land, but while the experience was an interesting one, it was sadly disillusioning, according to Mrs. Nau, who felt that it was lacking in the spiritual atmosphere she had anticipated. In point of natural characteristics, flowers, topography, green clad hills, etc., it was all that fancy had pictured, but the humdrum element was disappointing, and lacking in spiritual appreciation of Christianity's greatest religious festival.

In Italy, Mr. and Mrs. Nau left the steamer again to visit at their leisure some of the favorite spots recalled from earlier trips through that famous land. After assimilating the beauties of these well-remembered shrines, they rejoined the ship at Marseilles for the homeward sailing. A few days spent in New York City, and they started on the last lap of the voyage, the Canal trip to California.

Young Artist's Work Included In Exhibition

When friends were congratulating Santa Ana artists, including Miss Jean Goodwin and Burr Shaffer, upon the fact that their canvases had been accepted for the seventh annual Southern California Artists' exhibition now in session at Balboa park, San Diego, they were unaware that another Santa Anan had been singled out for this honor. This was Harper Goff, son of Mrs. Maude Goff, 206 Pacific avenue, a student at Los Angeles art schools.

"City Camp Fires" was the painting selected by the judges for inclusion among the scores of canvases shown. In working on the canvas, the young man chose a subject that was capable of development by artificial light, and completed the painting at odd times while at work in a Los Angeles studio. Following his graduation from Santa Ana high school, Harper Goff studied at Chouinard and other Los Angeles art schools, and has received gratifying recognition for his ability.

At present he is working on the art settings for organologues being put out by a film company, and his friends in this city found much interest in seeing his name on a recent short subject presented on a local theater program.

Trio Of Young Matrons Figure In Pleasant Party Event

When Mrs. Harold Carson accepted an informally extended invitation to spend Thursday evening at the home of Mrs. Forrest Hunter on North B street, Tustin, she did not know that she was lending herself to a delightful plan made by Mrs. Hunter and Mrs. Robert Goetting.

But those two youthful matrons had everything in readiness for a party to which they had bidden a group of close friends, with Mrs. Carson as their honoree. They had the home gay with flowers of every description, godelias, glads, jarkspur and many other blossoms glowing with soft bright hues.

Bridge and jigsaw puzzles shared in entertainment features and Miss Elsie Etcheson, scoring high in bridge, was suitably rewarded, with second prize going to Miss Helen Casper and consolation to Mrs. D. R. McMillan. Mrs. Dewey Brown was most successful among jigsaw fans, and so received the prize in that division.

Following this interval, Mrs. Carson discovered that the party had other unexpected features, for here was the privilege of examining an array of dainty layette articles, all chosen especially for her.

Concluding their hospitality, Mrs. Hunter and Mrs. Goetting suggested that their guests return to the card tables, which in the meantime had been spread with fresh linens and adorned with small storks, each carrying its traditional burden. Ices and cakes loomed in appropriate forms, were served with coffee.

Sharing the pleasant evening with hostesses and honoree were Miss Julia Thordike, Miss Elsie Etcheson, Mrs. Fayette Birchen, Mrs. D. R. McMillan, Mrs. Gordon Evenson, Santa Ana; Miss Helen Kinnear, Miss Velma Casper, Mesdames Floyd Hawkins, Harry Mathews, Clyde Williams, C. May Mathews, Dewey Brown, LeRoy Wilson, Bryan Anderson, Pat Cox, Tustin; Mrs. Kemper Anderson, Orange; Mrs. Fay Wallsworth, Garden Grove; and Mrs. O'Dell, Los Angeles.

Sorority Sisters Are Guests At Dancing Party

A dancing party of lovely appointments was given Friday evening when Miss Mildred Spicer was hostess to her sorority sisters of Gamma Kappa Theta of Occidental college, entertaining in the home of her mother, Mrs. Charles Spicer, 2348 North Park boulevard.

Dancing was enjoyed on the pretty terrace of the home, softly lighted with Japanese lanterns. Indoors, guests found that decorations conformed to blue and white, sorority colors. Bouquet of delphiniums were especially attractive in their arrangement throughout the home. The vivid blue flowers also made a charming centerpiece for a large table, draped with a handsome Italian lace cloth and lighted with tall blue tapers in crystal candlesticks. From here a dainty menu was served, crystal and silver service being used exclusively.

Twenty-five couples shared the happy occasion with Miss Spicer, who has just completed her sophomore year at Occidental, and is home for the summer.

Invited to be participants in a covered-dish menu one afternoon last week, a group of friends met in the home of Mrs. Elizabeth Smithwick, 707 Spurgeon street, for a merry affair. Each guest contributed a delicious dish to the menu, which proved to be bountiful indeed.

In decking her home for the occasion, Mrs. Smithwick used gladioli and other flowers in rainbow hues. An interval of special interest was that when tea leaf fortunes were told.

Part of the time was devoted to playing whist, Mrs. E. J. Scott winning the attractive award imported from France. The group remained for an evening of sociability, the hostess serving refreshments of coffee and cake to conclude the affair.

Present were Mrs. Mason Squier of Orange; Mrs. Etta Cook, Mrs. Anna Pratt, Mrs. E. J. Scott, Mrs. Fred Wixen, Mrs. Anna Leith, Mrs. Frank Seidel and the hostess, Mrs. Smithwick.

Reviewing "Rethinking Missions" a book which evolved from a committee report on foreign missions, Mrs. P. F. Schrock, wife of the pastor of First Congregational church, appeared the past week before members of the Women's auxiliary to the Episcopal Church of the Messiah, who met in the church.

Mrs. Schrock referred to the book as one which holds much criticism in its pages, and opens many channels of thought to its readers. She brought out that many churches are studying the book chapter by chapter.

The review was preceded by a morning session and a noon-day luncheon, during which a baked ham menu was served.

Lina Rosenbaum, 2639 North Main street, Miss Mary Arnold will be co-hostess.

PLAN PROGRAM OF APPEAL TO MUSIC LOVERS

Music lovers of Orange county will hear an intensely interesting presentation tonight at 8 o'clock over radio KREG when Madame Rosemary Rose noted teacher-artist, will conduct her fourth music appreciation program.

This broadcast will also be of special interest to those who are mildly interested in music, as it will be a German and Russian program of biographies, historical sketches and the works of some of the best known composers the world has ever known.

Madame Rose will be assisted by four of her pupils, Mrs. Inez Reynolds, Mrs. Irma Huffman May, Miss Frieda Lumsdon and Paul Allen.

Composers to be included in the presentation are Tschikowsky, Bachmanoff, Franz Schubert, and Franz Liszt. Excerpts from the works of these composers to be sung tonight will include "Nur Wer Die Sehnsucht Kennt," "The Lilacs," "Sylvia," and "Die Lorelei."

KREG NOTES

Advice on what stocks to buy, when to buy them, and when to sell is typical of the advice given on Monday broadcasts by the "Financial Councilor." These talks start at 6:45 p. m. and continue for 15 minutes.

Donald McDonald, tenor vocalist, will include four charming selections in his program for broadcasting at 7 o'clock tonight. The outstanding selections on his program will be "At Dawning," "The Hills of Home," "One Rose" and "On the Road to Mandalay."

Several classical music presentations tonight can easily be listed among the evening's "best bets." At 7:15 the radio will present an organ recital and at 7:45 an instrumental program of classical music will be offered and at 8:30 a third program of the great classics will be broadcast.

"Sororite Shop Syncopations" is the title of a new program to be broadcast each Tuesday and Thursday at 4:30 p. m. by the Sororite Shop of Santa Ana. Plenty of snappy music, reflecting the accepted meaning of "collegiate" will be heard during the program.

22 MEMBERS OF CLASS GUESTS OF BEACH POST

HUNTINGTON BEACH, June 12.—The 22 members of the Naturalization class of the Huntington Beach Union High school who this week completed their classes for the year at Talbert under Mrs. Florence Summers, were recent guests of the Joseph E. Dumas post of the American Legion of Huntington Beach at the high school cafeteria.

The pupils who are of seven nationalities, contributed their national hymns or folk songs as a special feature.

R. M. Elliott, vice principal of the high school, presided. One of the class members who is of Swiss birth and is now changing his name from Antoine Herschli to Hershey, and Mrs. Rose Sweetman, American born, who lost her citizenship when she married a native of England some years ago, regained her citizenship Tuesday, were featured on the program. Mrs. Hershey spoke on "What America Means to Me and Why I Wanted to Become a Citizen." Gwendolyn Sweetman, daughter of Mrs. Rose Sweetman, costumed as Red Cross nurse, paid tribute to a special guest of the evening, Mrs. Newton, a Red Cross nurse during the World war, by presenting her with a bouquet of red roses as the song, "The Rose of No Man's Land" was sung in her honor by two of the four McIntee sisters. The sisters gave a quartet number, "The Sweetest Story."

Will McIntee, a native of Canada and a former member of the local naturalization class, talked on the work of the class and thanked the Legion and the school board for the interest they have shown in the class.

Mrs. Robert Jenkin of the class gave two solo numbers, "Whispering Hope" and the other a song which she had sung in her native Australia in honor of the American fleet whenever it visited that country. Two comic songs were presented by Robert Jenkin. National songs were given in costume by a visiting Mexican high school girl. She was accompanied at the piano by Mrs. Maxwell of the high school faculty, while Mrs. Florence Summers accompanied the other vocalists. Aleck McAdams, a former member of the class and secretary to the high school board, spoke.

The diplomas were presented the naturalization class by Art Wilson of the high school board. Chaplain Reed of the Legion and Wellington De Laverne of the Oceanview school board were on the reception committee. Two guests from Newport Beach were Mr. Norton, who is active in Gordon, Legionnaire and member of the city council of that city. Legion work, and Irvin George

COTTONSEED HULLS USED IN WELL TO CLOSE BIG CAVITY

HUNTINGTON BEACH, June 12.—The Standard Oil company is using cottonseed hulls as a filler for the huge cavity that has opened up in the Harry Anderson well at Twenty-first street and Walnut avenue, below 4000 feet in depth. The company lost circulation at the well weeks ago and has been trying to regain circulation in order to complete the job of re-drilling and deepening the well.

In the Richfield-Kingsland well on Twenty-second street and in the Texas-Plexin and one or two other wells in the vicinity the pumps suddenly began pumping cottonseed hulls along with mud and oil and basic sediment. The presence of the hulls shows that the mud is circulating from the Standard well. As all wells in the field are likely to be deepened and sent after the new zone, there is little interest in the Standard-Anderson circulation job, except from curiosity as this is the first time cottonseed hulls have ever been tried out in this field.

The new well of Severens and DeWitte is holding up fine. It is flowing about 1600 barrels a day of 25-5 gravity oil that cuts less than four-tenths of one per cent. It is one of the big wells of the field from the new oil area that has caused the present excitement.

When both the girls were out of sight, wee Duncy asked, "Are you all right?" "Why, sure," said Goldy. "Come along before it is too late."

"When Mister Giant, sleeping sound, awakes we will not be around. This is the best chance you have had to sneak. Why hesitate?"

"Well, we don't know where we're bound for, so we should have some food. What's more, I know where I can find some," answered Duncy, with a grin.

"Wait there for me. It won't take long, unless, by chance something goes wrong. I'll leave the trap door open so that I can jump right in."

And then he ran to help himself to cookie that were on a shelf. He stumbled in the kitchen and he heard the giant sigh.

"Oh, I'm so clumsy, Duncy thought. It may lead to my being caught. We're trapped if the old giant even opens up one eye."

Looking into the Private Life of the Mighty Morgan

By Willis Thornton

IN the house where she had reared her children, a woman lay dying. Doctors shook their heads. They could do nothing in the presence of the mysterious malady encephalitis, or sleeping sickness, of which almost nothing is known.

After a momentary rally, the woman died. As the owner in her own right of considerable property, she left a will. And when it was read, it was found that she had left most of her property to her sons and daughters, not to her husband.

The mere fact was not surprising, but through the cold legal language of that will shone a tenderness that is pathetic and touching.

"I feel sure," it read, "that if, through any unforeseen circumstances, my dear husband should ever be in need, my children will share with him the property derived from me."

Only the simplicity of a loving and devoted wife could have written those words, for the husband to whom they refer is John Pierpont Morgan, head of the world's greatest private bank, mightiest dealer in dollars that the country has ever known.

Such glimpses into the (to them) sacred private lives of the Morgan family are rare. For the Morgans are aggressively secretive, and fiercely jealous of those private lives.

THEIR gigantic banking projects may include such things as organization of U. S. Steel Corporation, the first "billion-dollar baby." They may include coming to the rescue of a moribund U. S. Treasury in 1893, and standing grim-shouldered to stem the financial panic of '07, cracking the whip while tight-lipped New York bank presidents filed in and laid their assets on the line to stem the panic.

They may include saving the credit of the city of New York when it was endangered by the outbreak of the war in 1914 and Europe sucked away the city's gold; or raising a half billion for the Allies in 1915, and representing them in raising loans and buying supplies in America throughout a great war.

They may include two congressional investigations by investigators intent on proving that the House of Morgan is a financial octopus, relentlessly crushing to its evil body all money, all industry, all power.

They may include organization or reorganization of some of the greatest industrial units in the country, and hundreds of fingers in the industrial pie through directorships held by the 20 partners.

But the Morgans themselves remain elusive, aloof, fiercely retiring.

THEY are so little known that there is no doubt that thousands of people do not realize that the elder J. P. Morgan, whose fierce-flashing eye and bulbous nose became the cartoonists' symbol for financial dominance in Teddy Roosevelt's day, has been dead these 20 years, and that a son has carried on his name and his affairs, increasing the glamour and potency of both.

That is partly because the present J. P. Morgan, while a handsomer man than his father, nevertheless resembles him strikingly, and has perhaps an even greater hatred of personal publicity. Even in Wall Street, where the memory of terror-inspiring "Jupiter" Morgan still lives, the son, now 66, is accorded the titles "senior" and "chief," by which the elder and legendary Morgan had been known.

The present J. P. Morgan, born and bred to great financial affairs if ever a man was, presents a strange picture of apparent contradictions.

Though essentially a bookish, studious, retiring figure, he has, ever since the death of his father plunged him into headship of his House, maintained and even increased its pre-eminence. While his merest memorandum beginning "J.

For Morgan is not only learned in that church's history, but its most active financial supporter, vestryman at St. George's in New York, and a sort of lay pope to the denomination. In this, he is simply following the course, of his famous father.

A SILENT man, keeping to the bosom of a much-loved family, he is yet a man who appears to enjoy his annual reunions with his graduating class ('89) at Harvard, and who seldom misses the Yale-Harvard boat race. Despite an instinctive distrust or even hatred of cameras, Morgan faced them, and was

Though the spotlight now turns on his business affairs, the world knows next to nothing of the other side of this publicity-hating giant among men in the world of finance almost pleasant to newsmen when he returned from Europe as unofficial American representative to the Reparations Conference of 1929. That was public business.

A man born to crushing responsibility and the direction of great affairs cannot live as he chooses. But if he is of the right temperament, he can come pretty close to it. Morgan does. He has four homes, all maintained fully-staffed for his use at any time.

Mostly he lives at the great rambling house at Matinick Point, Long Island. It stands on a point reached only by a bridge, and has its own private yacht landing where the Corsair may put in.

The Corsair, fourth of a line of Corsairs built for the Morgan family, cost $2,500,000 when completed at Bath, Me., in 1930, and is certainly one of the largest and finest pleasure craft afloat.

The yacht's graceful black hull is 343 feet long, and she is, of course, fitted out in the utmost luxury, a triumph of American shipbuilding. Most American millionaires, it might be added, have their yachts built abroad, where they come cheaper.

THERE is an interesting sidelight on her building. The ship people wanted to fit her with gyroscopic stabilizers, like the new ocean greyhounds. Morgan said no, he liked the roll of the sea. And he does.

Yachting has been a sporting tradition in the family. J. P. rowed a good deal at Harvard, though he never made the crew. He has sailed small craft in competition, and his sons, Junius and Henry, are also yachtsmen, having been elected presidents respectively of the New York and Seawanhaka Corinthian clubs. Both their father and grandfather had held these posts in their time.

But of course the Corsair is for ocean trips. When J. P. is at Matinick Point, he commutes to New York in a smaller craft. He rises late, and often potters about in the garden of the estate in which his wife used to like to work. Then he boards ship for New York.

Arriving at the foot of Wall Street, he goes to his office, the forbidding, solid, squat stone structure that bears no name above the door and is known throughout the financial section simply as "The Corner." A low two- or three-story building here is the height of luxury, for land is so valuable that all around the Morgan corner skyscrapers loom above it.

Here in a great open room sit all of the Morgan partners, financial agents, each with a desk in rows like schoolboys. Morgan goes to his own desk at one side behind a glass partition, and sits before an open fire with the portrait in oils of his father looking down upon him.

THE present Morgan reveres his famous father with an almost Oriental devotion.

Partners step informally to his desk for conference. There is never the slightest disorder in the room, nor sign of business beyond that of any ordinary well-conducted banking room.

At the break of the afternoon, Morgan takes tea in the English fashion, a habit acquired during four years of work and residence in London. It is a habit, by the way, to which his father, the elder Morgan, never became quite reconciled.

Then, the day over, Morgan slips out of the office and is gone. Comparatively few people ever see him at all. He is not a mixer, and sees few outside his own restricted circle.

The Morgan town house is a famous institution. Standing on the corner of 36th Street and Madison Avenue just where that once exclusive street rises in the gentle slope of Murray Hill, the Morgan house is a little dusty and old-fashioned, and not nearly so magnificent as dozens of homes of New York's wealthy.

Morgan has gradually acquired control of almost the entire block between 36th and 37th, first for his own privacy, and second to protect the gem-like Italian Renaissance art gallery and library which house the Morgan collection of art and manuscripts. These are open to students and all who have a legitimate interest.

Naturally, by temperament and connections, sympathetic with England, Morgan maintains two homes there. The more impressive of these is Wall Hall, in the village of Aldenham, just beyond the remotest northern suburbs of London.

THERE he is Squire Morgan. Wall Hall is not old, as English country places go, nor is Aldenham an especially ancient village. Both the village and Morgan's estate are cheerfully modern. The Squire likes to go grouse shooting, and gets over every year or so.

In addition, he maintains a small modern house in Grosvenor Square, London, which replaces the one he had in Princes' Gate and which he turned over to the United States for use of the American ambassador.

Intimate friends of Morgan (and there aren't many) say he is rather warm and generous-natured at heart, but few people ever find that out if it is true. His "public-be-gone" attitude prevents. But there are little incidents that are revealing.

ONCE when attending a Harvard class reunion, Morgan was named an overseer of the university, a post in which he took more pleasure, he said, than in any of his other multitude of jobs. Responding to a toast in which a class poet half humorously, half respectfully, referred to him as "The Great Lord Morgan," the money master muttered, "Oh, hell, call me Jack." That, by the way, is what his intimates do call him.

Being head of the House of Morgan is not all beer and skittles. It may involve danger and death. Twice Morgan has had narrow escapes.

Back in 1915 a madman forced his way into the library of the Matinick Point house and confronted Morgan alone, a pistol wavering in his hand, muttering crazily. Morgan did not flinch, but rushed at the intruder, who fired. Badly wounded, Morgan stumbled, but rushed in and hurled his 200 pounds on the maniac, holding him until help arrived.

In 1920 a truck of explosive was driven up to The Corner and exploded in a second plot on his life. As the building shook and dust and confusion filled the air, it was Morgan who stepped to the door to see what had happened, and who by his example of coolness reassured a frightened office staff.

Anaheim

SEVEN GIVEN ANNUAL DRAFT TO GRADUATES DELIVERED BY OF BY SCHOOL ANAHEIM C. O.

ANAHEIM, June 12.—To know values and life; to make the most of them and to lay down the most life for the acquisition of them; these were the text of the Rev. Thomas H. Walker's address last night when baccalaureate services for the Anaheim Union High school were held in the amphitheater of the city park. The subject of his address was "Paying for the Best" with the text chosen from the fifth chapter of the Gospel of Matthew.

To the "Grand March" by H. F. Fines, played by the high school orchestra, the graduating class marched down the center aisle to take their places in seats below the platform that was banked with blue and gold flowers and Easter lilies. They led the congregation in singing "Praise God From Whom All Blessings Flow" by L. Bourgeois, and at the close of the service "Come Almighty King."

During the Rev. Mr. Walker's address he stressed the necessity to recognize the chances and opportunities of life and to take advantage of them; to hold the power to know the best and to gain acquisition of it by willingness to sacrifice. He implored the graduates not to try to escape the labor of thinking and to realize that the sum of all knowledge is to know God and Jesus Christ whom he sent.

He pointed out that while all cannot create masterpieces at least all can learn to enjoy them. At least all can learn to enjoy them in an easy life, he declared, and a tendency to seek mechanical comforts rather than spiritual expressions. Love bridges the cultural differences, he said, in conclusion.

The invocation was given by Rev. B. C. Vail and the benediction lesson, from the Book of Proverbs, by the Rev. Raymond C. Barker. The a cappella choir sang "My God How Wonderful Thou Art" and the Cecilia Singers, "Pater Noster." The benediction was given by the Rev. Virgil K. Ledbetter.

Sam Hunkeler was the soloist for the choir number "The Accompanist" by Elizabeth Heckman and Freddie Sattelle.

ANAHEIM CHORISTS

GLADEN SINGERS

ANAHEIM, June 12.—A cheery greeting and a colorful bouquet of flowers was given each shut-in or invalid in the Anaheim district, Saturday afternoon, when the Anaheim Floralists association became "Flower Folk" for the day and sent out 250 bouquets. This was a part of a similar national movement to bring cheer into the homes of every sick person.

The flowers were delivered by Boy Scouts and Girl Scouts all through the day and late into the evening. A few flowers were delivered on Sunday morning to the more isolated homes.

According to a check made this morning flowers were sent to homes as far north as Whittier and as far south as Santa Ana.

Since June 1 plans have been formed by the local scouts and the churches and organizations were asked to turn in the names of all sick or crippled people.

Anaheim Police Notes

ANAHEIM, June 12.—The Ford roadster belonging to J. Marion Ochs that was stolen Friday night during the baseball game in the city park, was recovered by the owner Saturday at Cypress and Helena streets.

BEER NOT A BONANZA

On the 27th, there will be a number of questions on which the voters will record their judgment. The liquor question is one of them, and to many it is the most important, though it is not engrossing the attention of people as much as it was a few weeks ago.

Those who have imagined that they themselves were going to get rich out of the sale of beer, have had a rude awakening in those communities that have already granted a license. There has not been, in many places, as much beer sold in May as in April, and some business men, who had their beer signs out in front, have taken them in, because some have thought it probably drove away as much business, if not more, than it brought in.

In one community in Orange county, the liquor sales fell off two-thirds in May over April. There is not the money in it for the business men; there is very meagre return in it for any municipality; there will be much less return for the nation than was ever contemplated. And it will only be through the process of the cultivation of appetite, as they did in the olden days, and through the assistance of the government, that the liquor men can ever get back into their stride of the consumption of liquor as in the olden days. Already the proof of that is being brought out, and there has been misrepresentation concerning the amount of drink during these prohibition days. The value of the law itself is being seen.

As a Colorado court declared a few weeks ago, "If this four per cent beer by volume is not intoxicating, then there is no need of any regulatory law concerning it at all. If it is intoxicating, then it is a palpable violation of the Constitution of the United States, and it is unconstitutional." Hence he declared that the law that proposed to regulate the drink, was unconstitutional upon one or other of these theories. This is plainly true. If this is not intoxicating, then why do they not proceed to sell it without any regulatory law? It is because it is recognized that it is intoxicating, and they have to have the endorsement of the people for a regulatory measure. But if it is intoxicating, then a vote to permit it is a vote to grant permits to a group of people to violate the Constitution of the United States.

We believe that Santa Ana and Orange county stand for a different theory of government than that which is embodied in such a proposition. The truth is that while two communities in Orange county have voted "wet," that formerly voted "dry," yet it does not appear by the vote that there has been an actual change in the sentiment of the "drys" to the "wets."

In Laguna Beach, for example, there were only six more voters who voted "wet" than voted "wet" last November and yet the "wets" carried it by an overwhelming majority. In Brea there actually were not as many "wet" votes cast in the last election for beer, as there were last fall, when it voted to repeal the Wright Act and voted for amendment No. 2.

The difficulty was that the "dry" people did not get out to vote. The failure to vote is the only reason for the failure to carry. If a strong vote is cast in Orange county, in other words, if the normally "dry" people go to the polls, they will win. The same is true in Santa Ana. There will be no danger of Santa Ana voting "wet," if the "drys" go to the polls, and we believe they are going to the polls, because there are many questions upon which they will vote.

There is no actual change in the sentiment, and the reasons why Santa Ana should continue in the same attitude that has built her up in such a wonderful way in the last two decades, and will insure her progress and success in the future days, are momentous. They all urge, a "dry" vote.

NEW COLLEGE PRESIDENTS

Harvard and Princeton, following the lead of Chicago University, have chosen very young men to lead the institutions for the years that lie immediately ahead. It is beginning to be manifest that new blood means young blood, and that after a certain number of years it becomes necessary to dismiss the elders to get new ideas and new methods going.

It should not be forgotten, however, that once appointed, these young men begin to develop, and continue to develop for many years to come. The years of usefulness are not limited to the "early" period, but grow as experience and ripeness come with the years. Presidents Eliot and Lowell of Harvard had the forward look until the very end of their careers. The same may be said of Timothy Dwight of Yale, Angell of Michigan, Jordan of Stanford, Judson of Chicago, and many others.

The advantage of catching college presidents young lies in the fact that once having taken the helm they have many more years to do their life work. This is what the officials of some of our large universities undoubtedly had in mind when they chose young men for these important posts.

Then, it should be said, that every college and university has a tradition which carries on even when leaders change. The young men are compelled to fall into that tradition, and develop along the line of it. No institution, and it is especially true of a college and a university, can make an abrupt change from its past. There is under every new administration a continuing body of instructors which cannot be abruptly broken from the prevailing system. It is what in other institutions or systems is called the "bureaucracy."

It is this continuing body of instructors that smooths the way for the young man taking his new post as head of a college or university. The man who breaks with these is very apt to break himself. Within the circle of his new job there is much of freedom for experimentation and advance, but the periphery of the circle is there to keep him within the orbit. It is this limitation, as well as the progressive ideals of the young man, which makes for a natural and worthwhile development.

CONGRESS HAS SERVED ABLY

We would like to again call attention to the cheap humor that is constantly thrust upon Congress. The humorist, and particularly the professional, cannot avoid a suggestion that Congress is a lot of "numb-skulls" and an injury to the country, etc.

As a matter of fact, the relief which has been coming through law, Congress has been enacting. While most of the suggestions have been coming from the President, he has been supported because Congress has realized the emergency and even at that, there are many modifications in the program that are due possibly to the element of conservatism in our national Congress.

There has not been a piece of legislation enacted during this special session which did not meet a particular need. And there has been the most far-reaching legislation enacted that has ever been passed, in a similar period of time, in our country's history. Congress is a cross-section of the people of the United States.

There are just as loyal and intelligent people there as would find their way into any other political body in our country. There may not be very many brilliant ones, but they are patriotic, thoroughly conscientious, and endeavoring to do their best. With the aid of the Chief Executive, they are doing a great work for our country. And while it is probable that they will soon adjourn, yet it is a comfort to know that we have a Congress of this kind of men who, in case of another or further emergency, can be relied upon to respond to the needs of the people whom they represent, and they represent them in a much more complete and real sense, as a rule, than does the President of the United States. It has been very rare indeed that we have had a President who is as thoroughly conversant with the needs of the people and as intelligent in meeting them, as is our present executive, Mr. Roosevelt.

In Defense Of Nightingales

Christian Science Monitor

The nightingale has reached what may prove a turning point in its career. After a century of unvarying praise and adulation this bird is being subjected to searching criticisms.

The guests at a hotel in Weybridge have complained of a nightingale that sings outside their windows. Not that its song makes all other music seem by comparison stale and flat, but that it actually prevents them from sleeping. Moreover, a letter in The Times states that its writer heard a skylark after sunset sing far more sweetly than does any nightingale.

Against these adverse comments the nightingale can point to only one recent triumph. That, however, is a very considerable triumph. The nightingale is the only bird that has been offered an annual engagement to radiocast for the British Broadcasting Corporation.

But this is not the first time in history that ungracious things have been said about the nightingale. In 1810, for example, Monsieur Louis Simond, a French visitor to England, remarked somewhat contemptuously that its song was "a lively, pleasing, vulgar sort of melody," inferior to that of birds of lesser fame. Its great reputation he added, is due chiefly to what the poets have written about it. As if spurred on by M. Simond's comments, the poets for the rest of the nineteenth century devoted a goodly part of their skill and energy to praising the nightingale. Keats, Arnold, and Swinburne vying with one another as to who could pay it the finest compliment. Later on, Sir Edmund Gosse brought the nightingale to town.

Nightingale treble sweet
In a poplared London street.
All lovers of the nightingale will be grateful to the poets for writing about it so pleasantly; but they will not accept M. Simond's suggestion that its fame depends on poetry rather than on itself. Poets cannot make reputations in that way. Consider the cuckoo.

So far as poetry is concerned, the cuckoo has had some of the best press notices ever written. The first modern English poem talks about the cuckoo; Wordsworth associated the cuckoo with the "farthest Hebrides," surely a sufficiently romantic spot; Arnold wrote about the cuckoo; in fact, most poets at some time or another have said something agreeable about the cuckoo. But has the cuckoo a great reputation? I have not. Is it regarded as the sweetest of all singers? No. The cuckoo does not in fact come up to specification. The lasting repute of the nightingale, on the other hand, shows that it does.

Shifting Population

Riverside Daily Press

It will be interesting to see whether the end of the depression will bring any change to the striking new shifts in American population growth. Figures compiled by the Scripps Foundation for Population Research show that during 1932 American cities as a whole decreased in population by more than 400,000 persons. Farm population, on the other hand, increased in that year by 1,000,000.

A great part of this is undoubtedly due to the depression. The cityward migration of farm youth was checked; and vast numbers of ex-ruralites who lost their city jobs retreated to their parents' farm homes for the duration of hard times. Let prosperity come back and the old tendency probably would be resumed.

But we can't be quite certain about it. There are good reasons for believing that most of our cities are about as large now as they ever will be. A movement toward decentralization seems to have begun. How far is it apt to continue, and what will its ultimate effects be?

Good Examples

San Francisco Chronicle

From Washington comes the note that Mrs. Curtis E. Dall, President Roosevelt's daughter, serves salads at the beginning of a meal instead of following the meat course.

Thus another old California custom comes into general circulation. So far as can be judged by the delighted comments of visitors from many parts of the world, this serving of salad was unique in California until others began to find it good.

From the California viewpoint at least, it is the only way. And like other old California customs, the world is welcome to this one.

You're Telling Us?

More Truth Than Poetry

By James J. Montague

WARNING

When your job makes you nervous and fretful
And your most useful duties you shirk,
When you're peevish and cross and forgetful
Of the fact that you must live by work,
When you think of the wind in the willows
Always humming a low wistful tune,
Or the sea with its lace-laden billows,
The trouble's not you, it is June.

Your mind's on a journey out yonder
Where the pines stand alight in the sun,
And you think of swell places to wander
With a dog, and of course, with a gun.
You look at the grime of the city
And you simply will not be resigned,
For you're full to the brim with self-pity
While you stick at the old daily grind.

But yet, if your freedom were granted,
And you wandered the open at last,
It never would be as enchanted
As it was in the days of the past.
And even the while you were packing
The thrill would not quite be the same;
You'd discover that something was lacking
Though you never could call it by name.

The cataracts still would be falling
And mantling the boulders with spray,
The orioles still would be calling
Defiance to hawk and to jay,
But once there was something within you
Which Nature can never restore;
You still may have courage and sinew,
But you are not a boy any more.

Thoughts On Modern Life

By GLENN FRANK

IS ROOSEVELT A RADICAL?

A reader of these articles asks me to say whether I regard Mr. Roosevelt as a radical.

I do not consider Mr. Roosevelt a radical and I do not consider him a conservative. I think the President is honestly seeking to bring a true radicalism and a true conservatism into fruitful union, testing policies neither by their age nor by their youth, but by their current workability, their results in terms of social well-being.

Long ago I painted parallel portraits of the radical and the conservative in some such terms as these:

The true radical thinks mainly of the reality of roots.

The true conservative thinks mainly of the reality of fruits.

The true radical is chiefly concerned with emerging realities.

The true conservative is chiefly concerned with existing realities.

The true radical is a prospector.

The true conservative is a preserver.

The true radical is an explorer by temperament.

The true conservative is an executive by temperament.

The true radical's function is the discovery of new ideas that are sound.

The true conservative's function is the defense of old ideas that are sound.

The true radical and the true conservative are thus companions in the indivisible task of finding and putting into daily use ideas that are sound, but their differing temperaments have worked out a division of labor between them.

They are not in reality competitors; they complement each other; they make a magnificent team in the building and managing of a creative civilization.

When the qualities of true radicalism and the qualities of true conservatism meet and merge in one man they produce a statesman.

Without suggesting the stature of superman, I think Mr. Roosevelt shows gratifying tendencies towards the essential qualities that mark both the radical and the conservative.

HEALTHY DOUBT

Nobody knows all there is to be known about any child. When we say that a certain height and weight is average for a child of a certain age, we are stating a generality that may or may not apply to the particular child in question.

When the specialist says, "A child talks when he is one year old," he is stating a general fact. All children do not talk when they are one year old. Some begin earlier and others later. How can we average things like that and be accurate for all children. Johnnie talked when he was two and Thomas when he was nine months. Adding twelve months and nine months and dividing by two is a neat little number story but that story has little to do with the two children in question. Johnnie, will still have begun to talk when he was two and Thomas when he was nine months.

The facts may throw some light on the ability, intelligence and power of the two children. Maybe, Johnnie may be slow in all his ways, and again he may not. Thomas may be slower than Johnnie, or he may be faster. The fact remains that Johnnie is Johnnie and Thomas is Thomas and even though both are of the same family they will have to be trained as individuals without regard to each other's ways.

When the doctor examines a child, when the teacher tests him, when the specialist diagnoses his state of mind or body, each does his best to return a true report of his finding. They may be right. They may not. Don't feel called upon to take what is told you as the final word. An honest doubt is a healthy thing in any situation. Give yourself time to consider and give the child a chance to show you his real self. He may have shown another side to the examiners. You ought to see him more clearly than they and know him better. You know his heredity, his family characteristics. You can lend your knowledge to the others and judge what is best to do when all reports are in.

We need the help of the specialist. We cannot get along without him but we must help him and we must be ready and quick to question any decision in the light of our own knowledge and experience. There is a sane middle course that offers itself to troubled parents—not too much confidence in their own powers, not too literal acceptance of the statements of other folk. Take time, think things over and watch the child.

I say this because one child is held in distance like a prisoner of old because a doctor found a heart murmur. Many children of his age have this and get along well, going their way serenely. Heart disease is one thing, variations in the beat another. Take time and watch and don't label the child too hastily. Another child is taken out of a class and put in a special school because he failed repeatedly to reach the high standard his brothers and sisters met easily in the preparatory school. The boy needs a different course of study but he does not need segregation in a special school. A healthy doubt might have saved him a lot of trouble.

Hold on to hope. Don't cheat yourself of it, nor your children. Give the specialist time, try things out, give yourself and the child time and hope. I dread finality in the treatment of children in any field.
